

Boston's Botanic Bay:
A Visionary Towards a Creative Paradigm of Public Spaces

Aysan Jafarzadeh

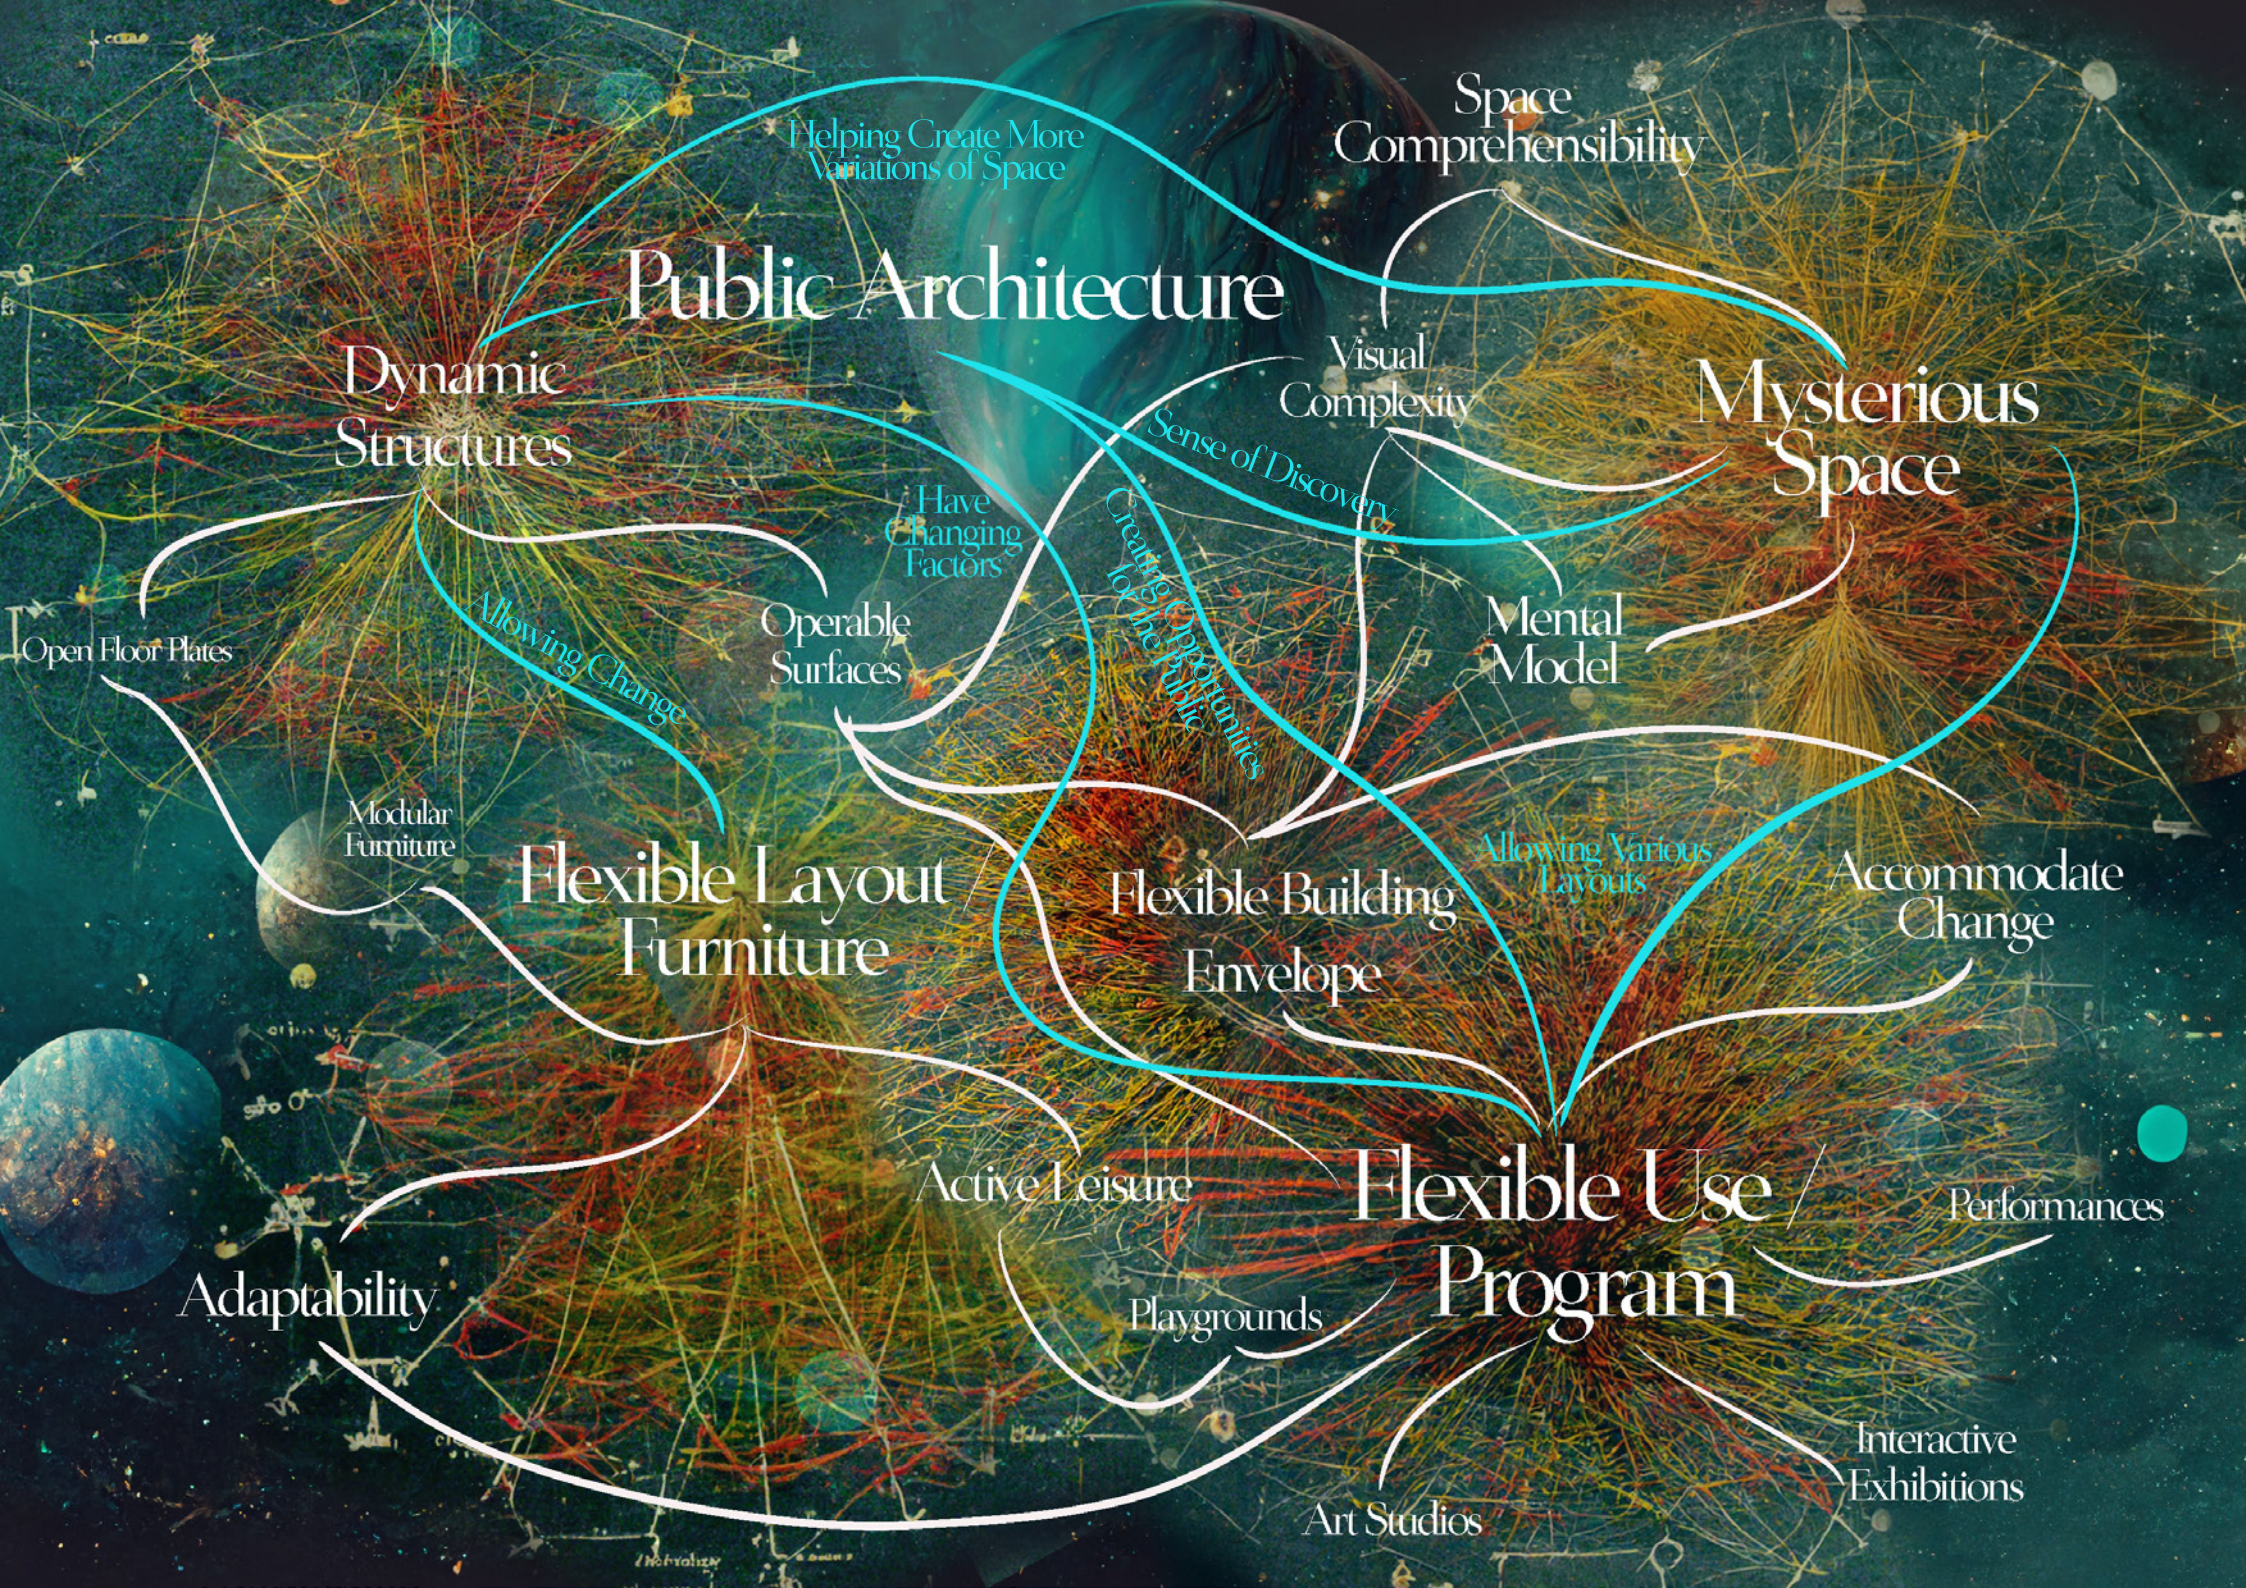

Olmsted's Original Design for the Emerald Necklace in Boston

Public Architecture

Dynamic Structures

Open Floor Plates

Modular Furniture

Flexible Layout Furniture

Allowing Change

Operable Surfaces

Have Changing Factors

Creating Opportunities for the Public

Flexible Building Envelope

Active Leisure

Playgrounds

Art Studios

Flexible Use Program

Performances

Interactive Exhibitions

Mysterious Space

Space Comprehensibility

Visual Complexity

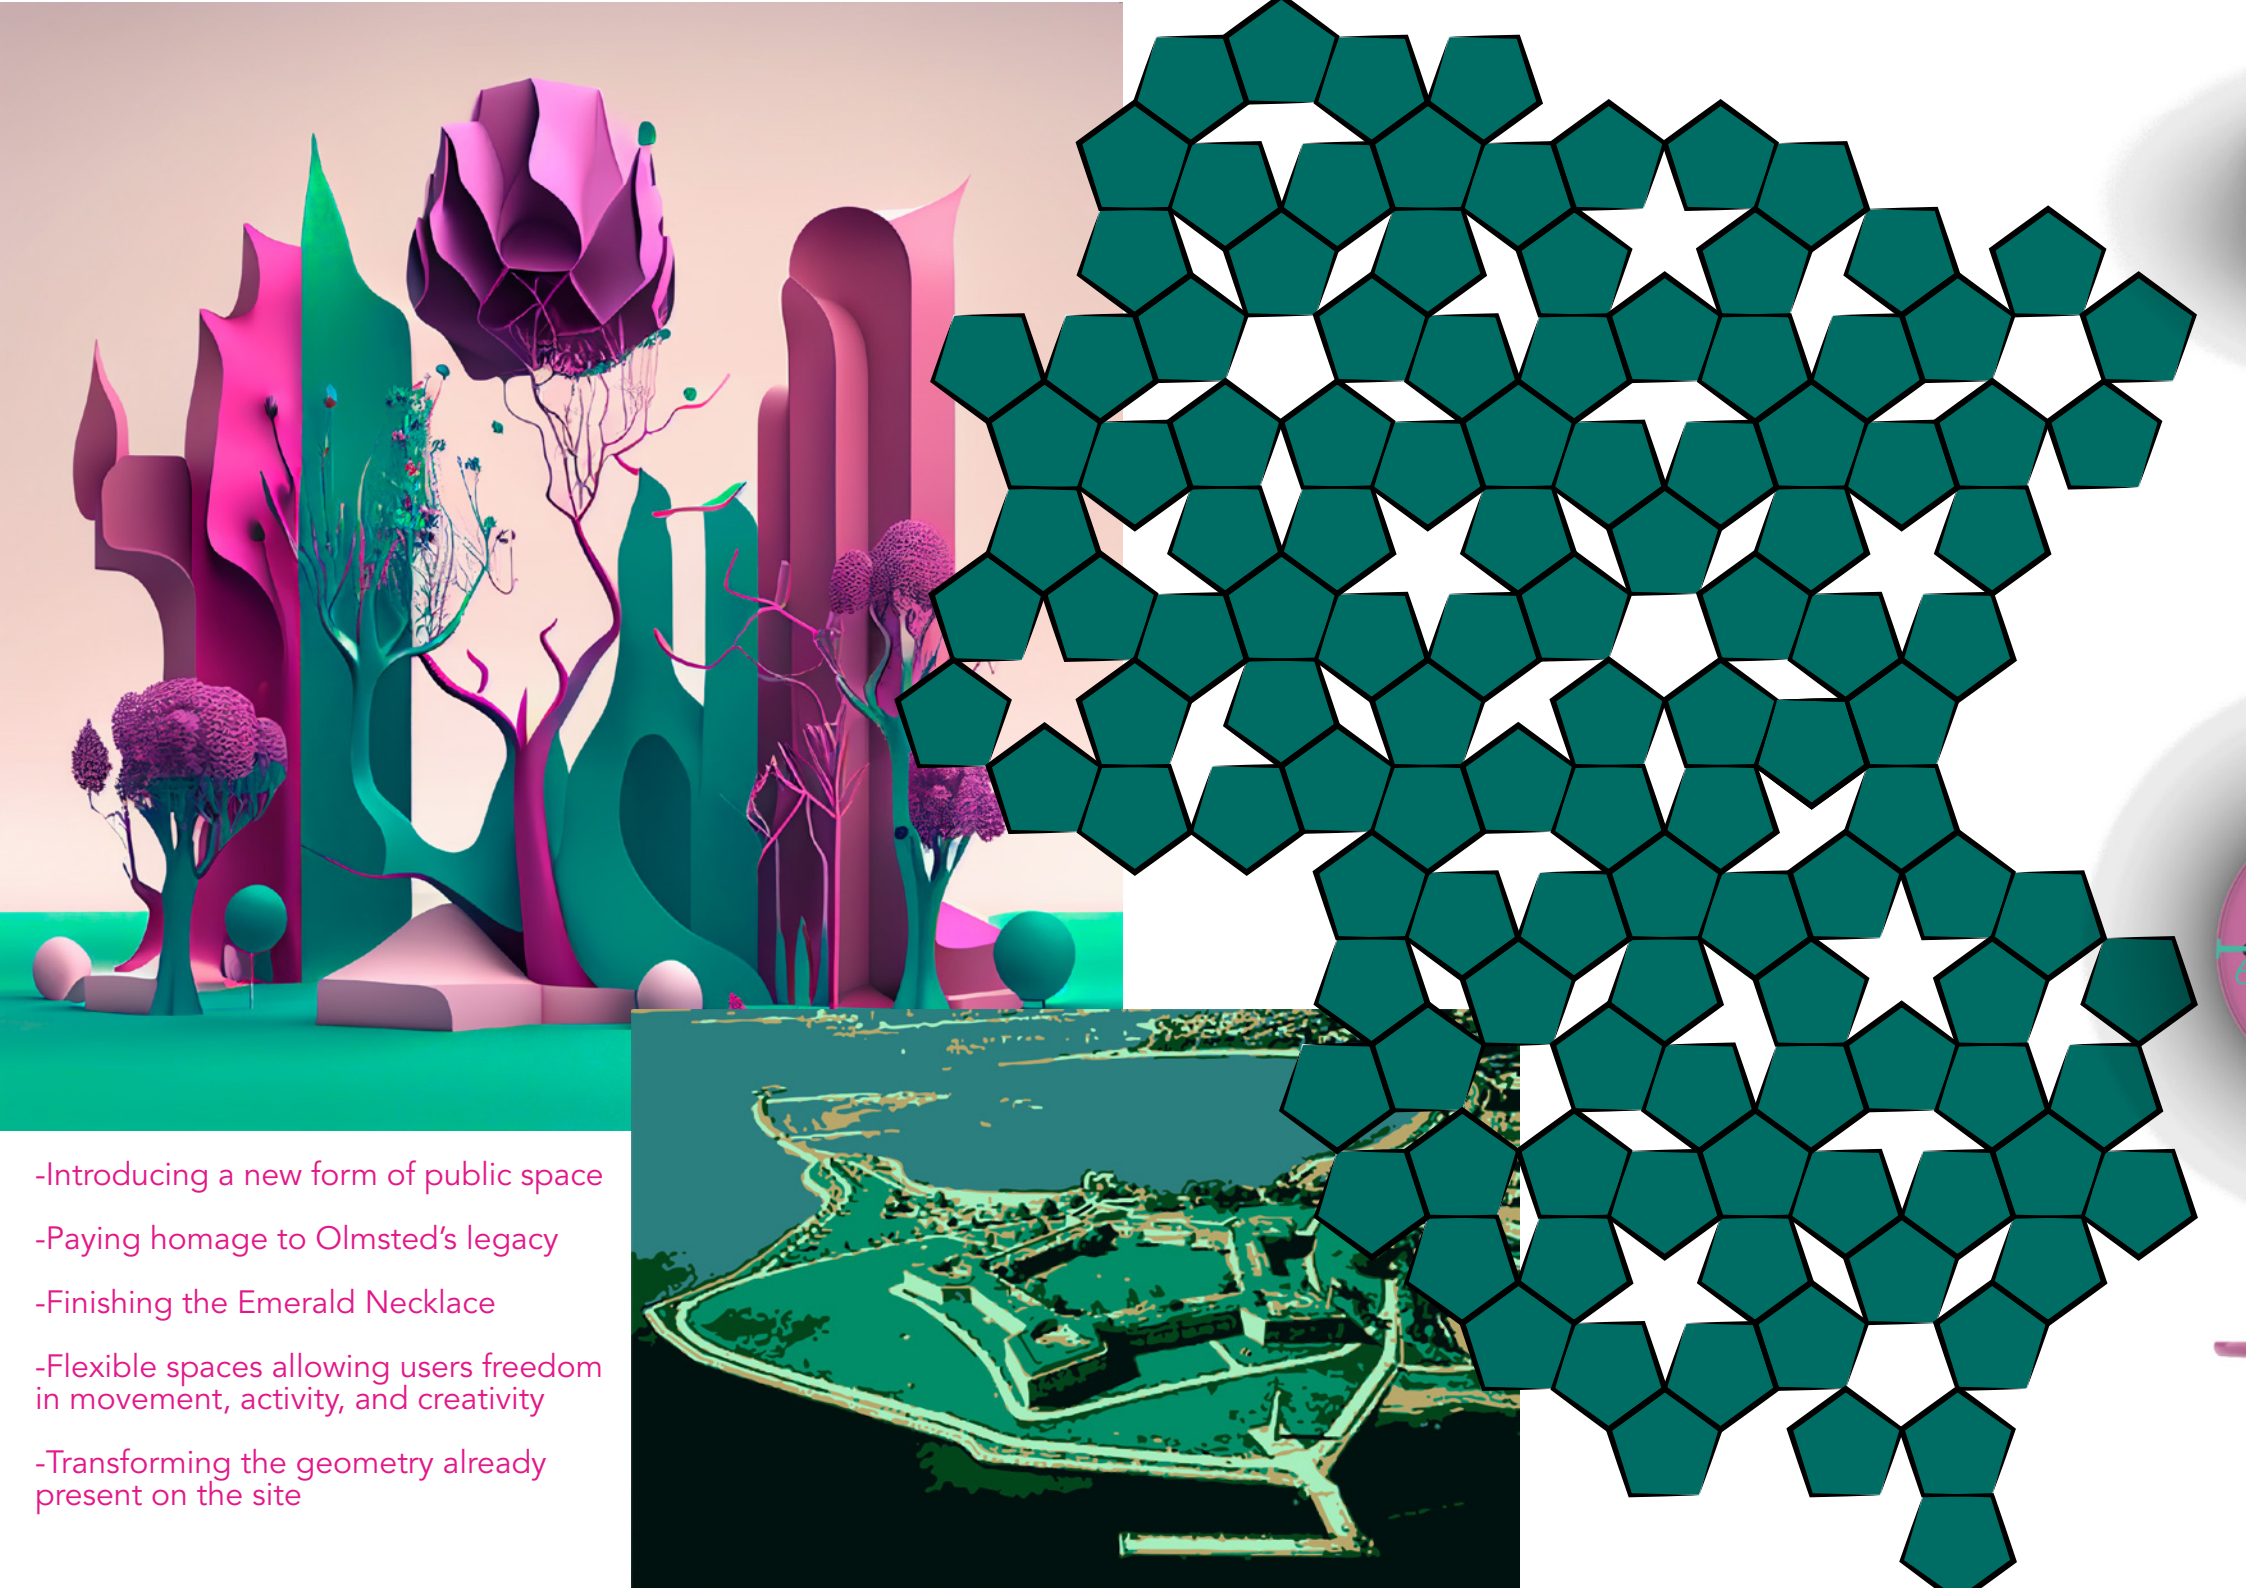

Sense of Discovery

Mental Model

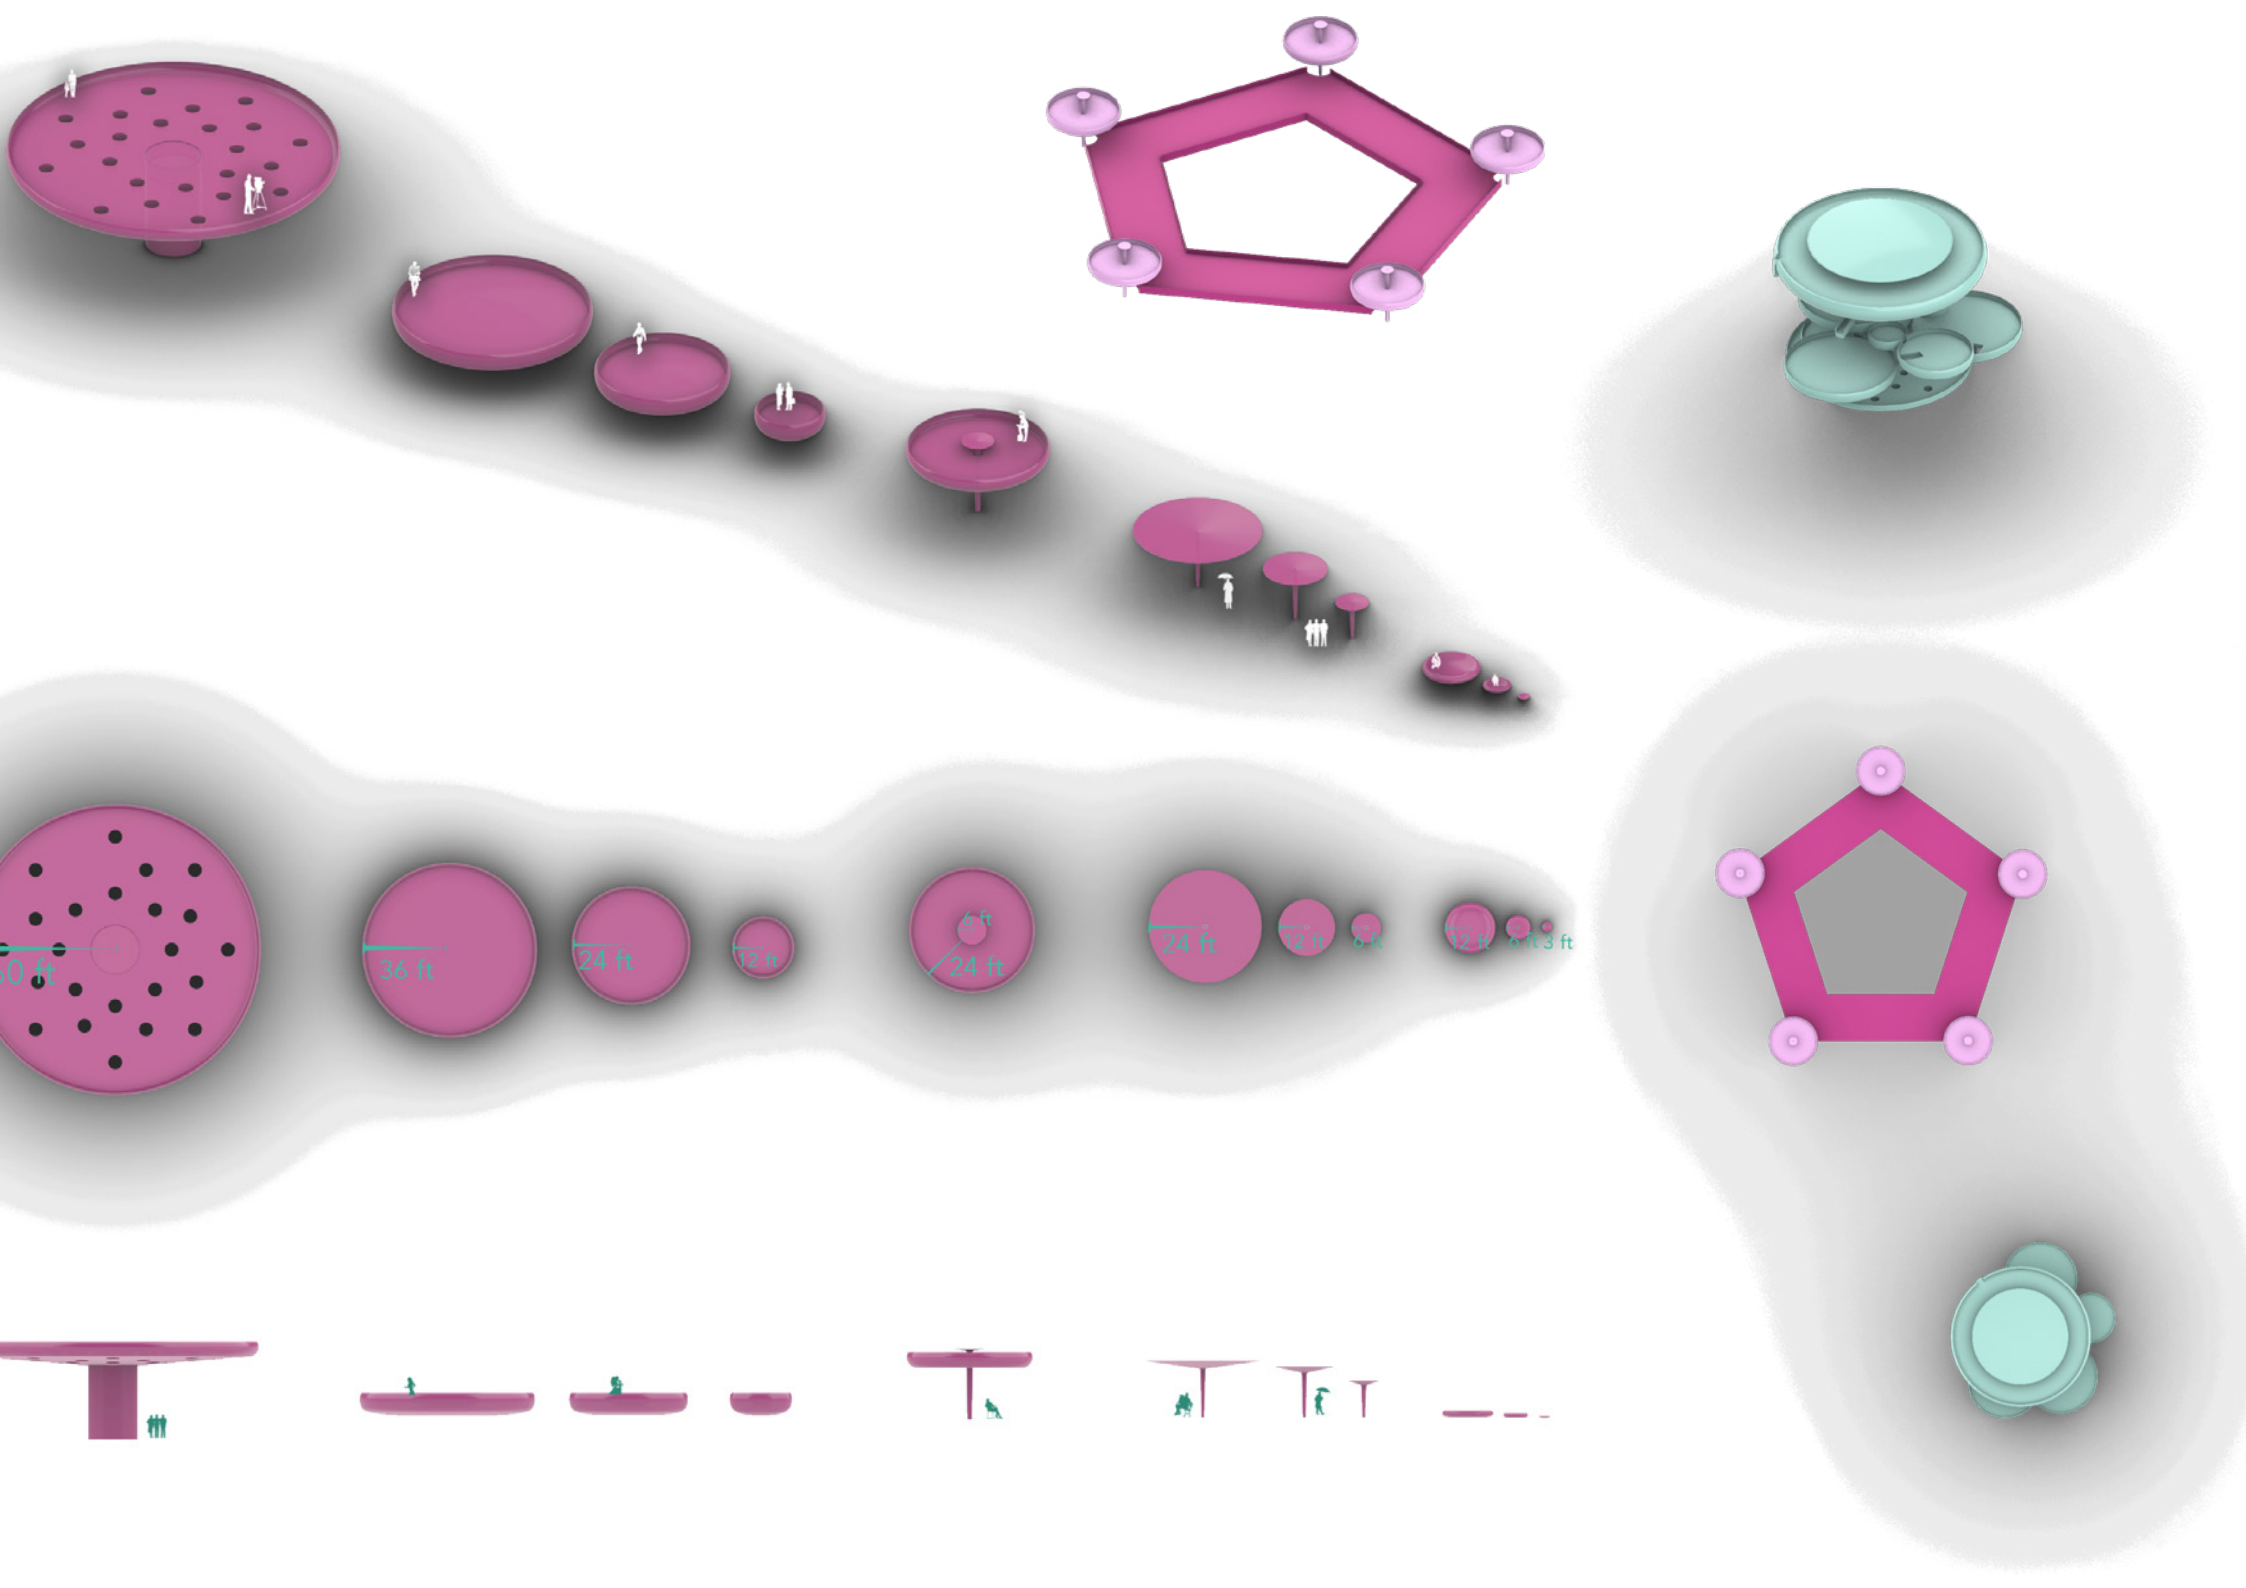

Allowing Various Layouts

Accommodate Change

Helping Create More Variations of Space

- Introducing a new form of public space
- Paying homage to Olmsted's legacy
- Finishing the Emerald Necklace
- Flexible spaces allowing users freedom in movement, activity, and creativity
- Transforming the geometry already present on the site

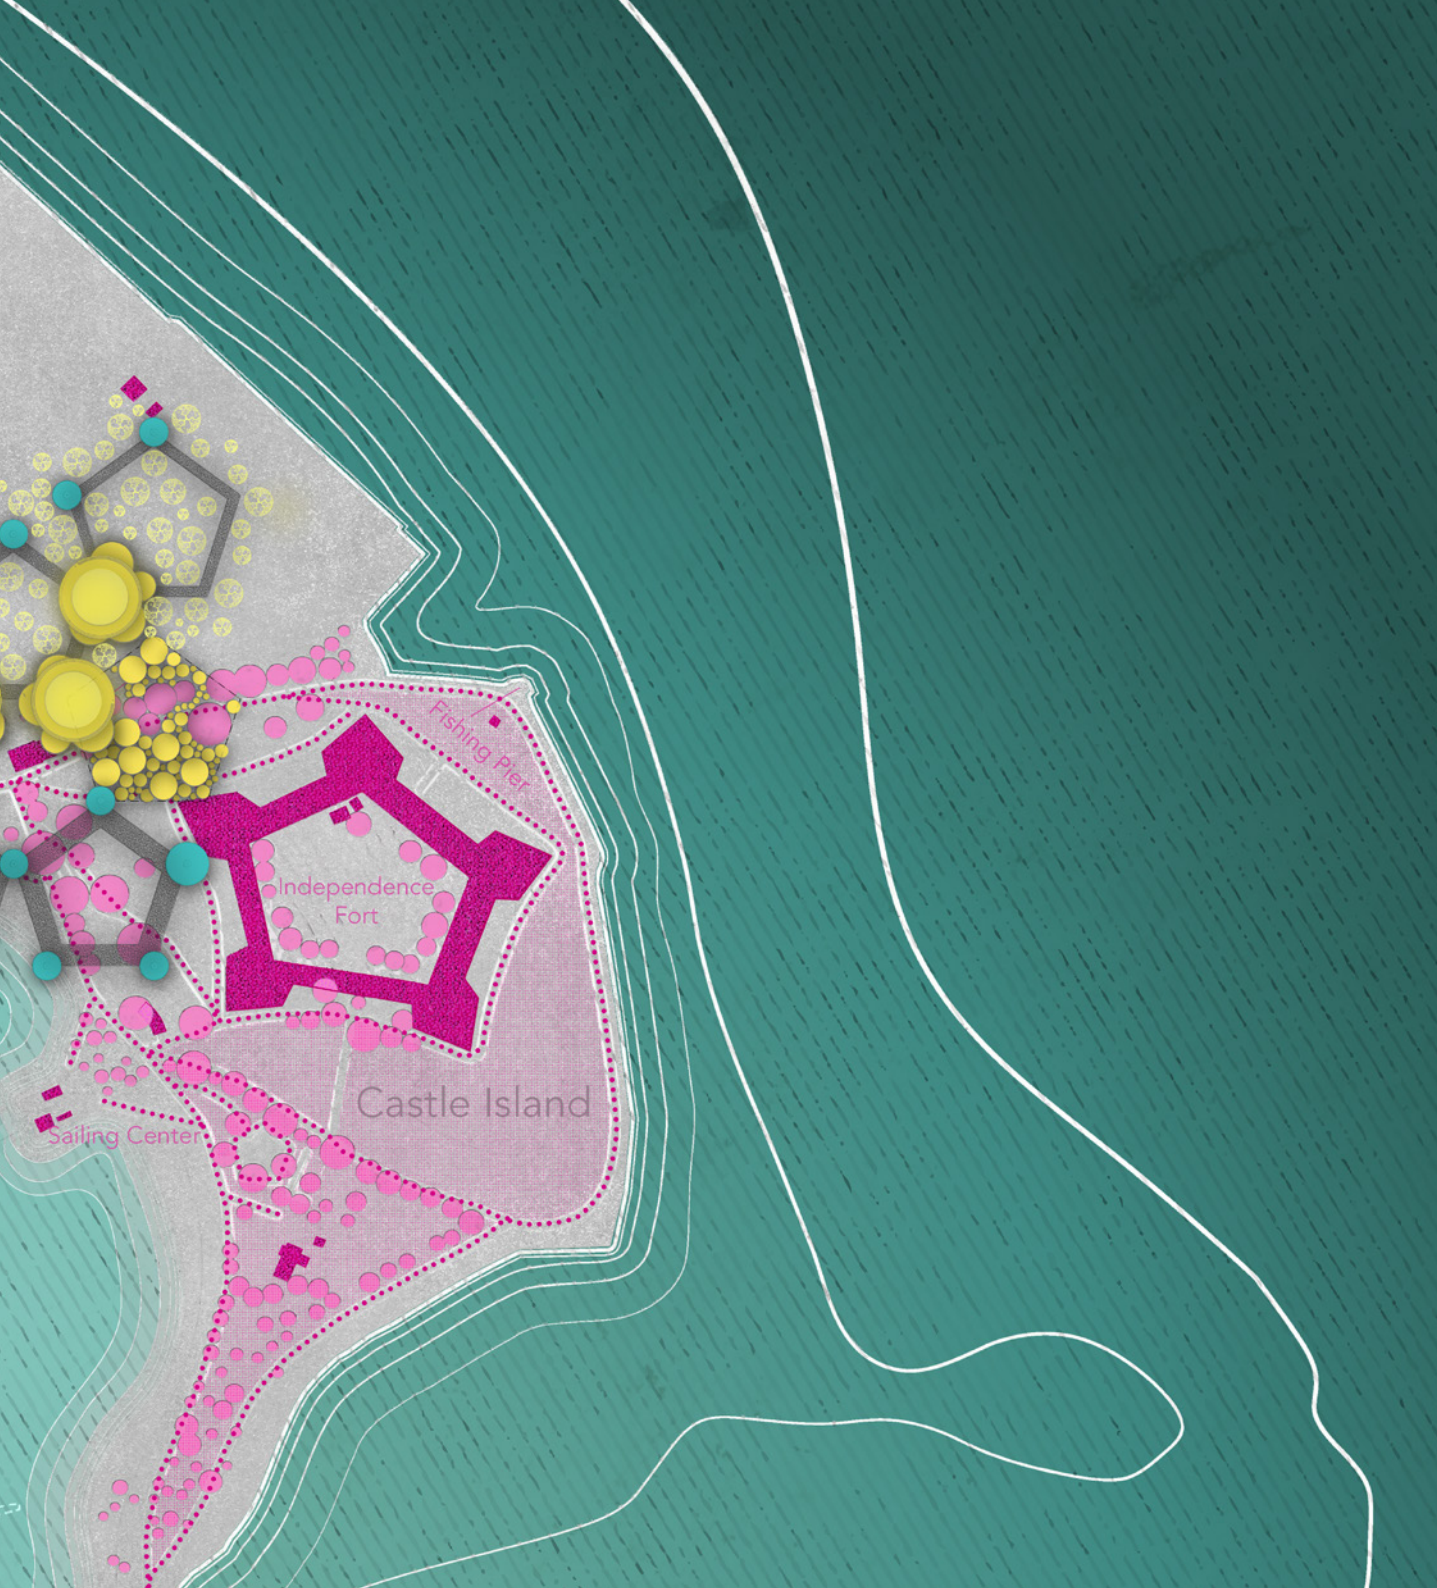

Abandoned
Industrial
Site

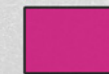

Parking Lot

Sports
Fields

Submerged Ruins

Legend

Existing Buildings

Industrial Site

Existing Trees

Pedestrian Path

Roads

Proposed Concept

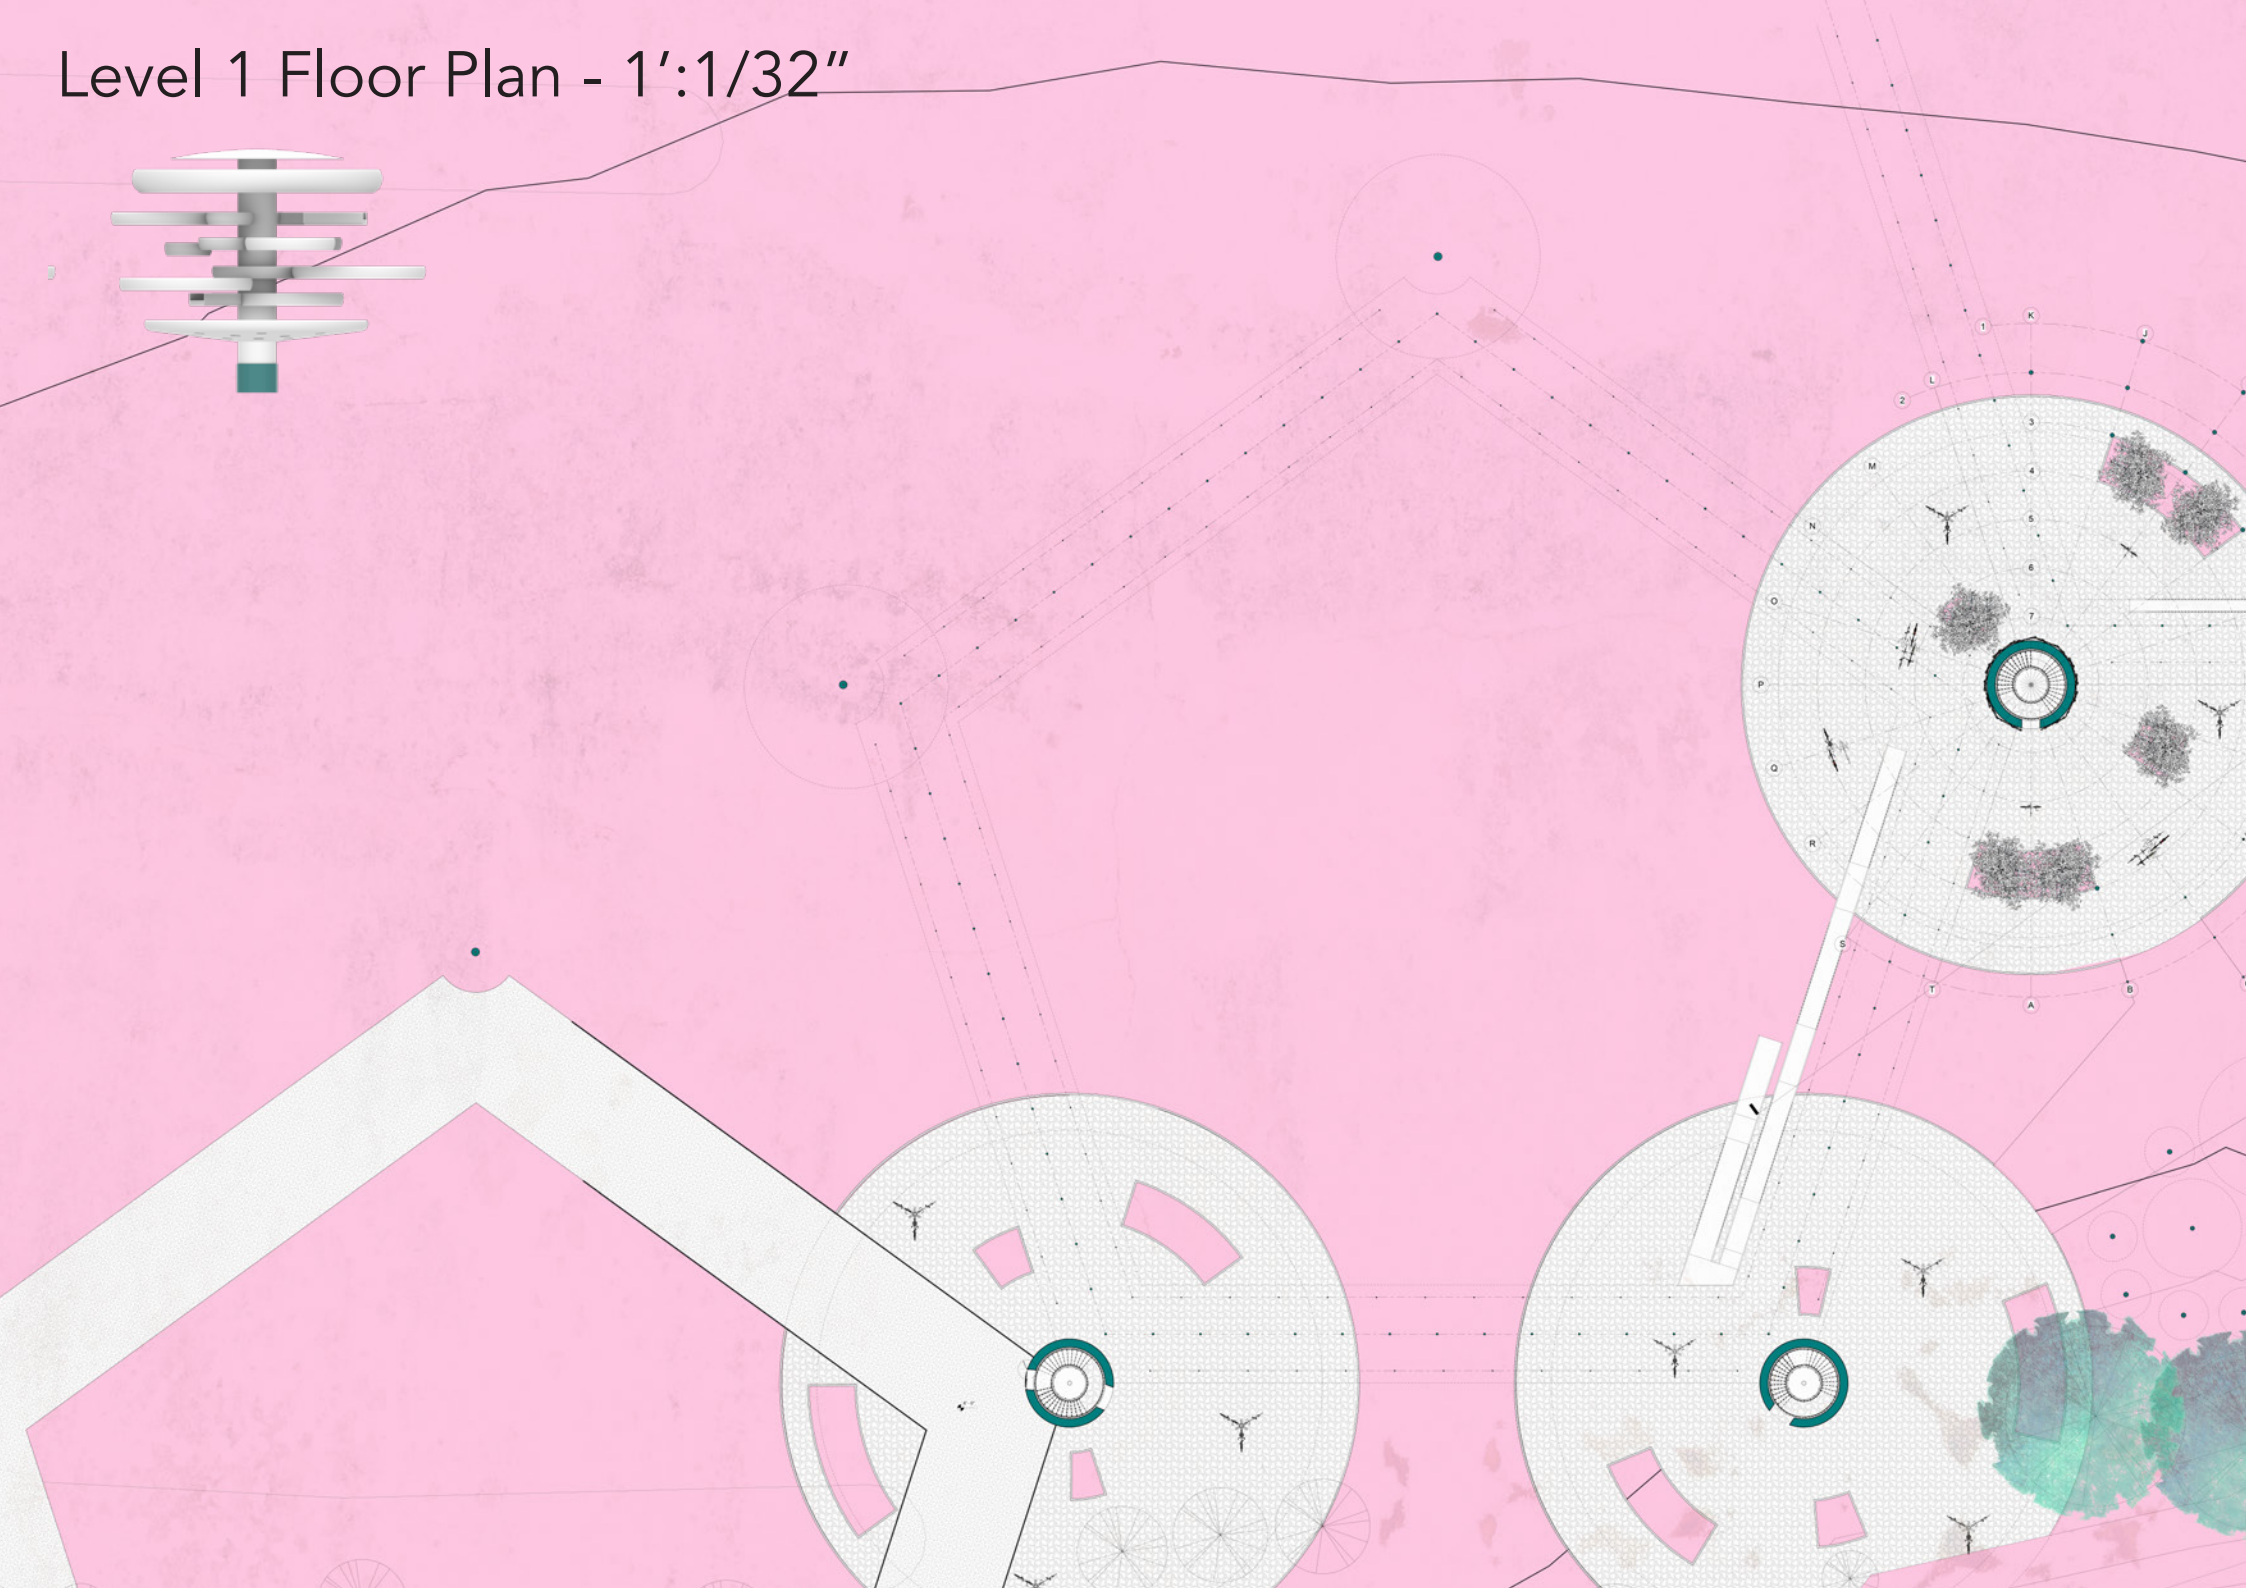

Moving Platforms

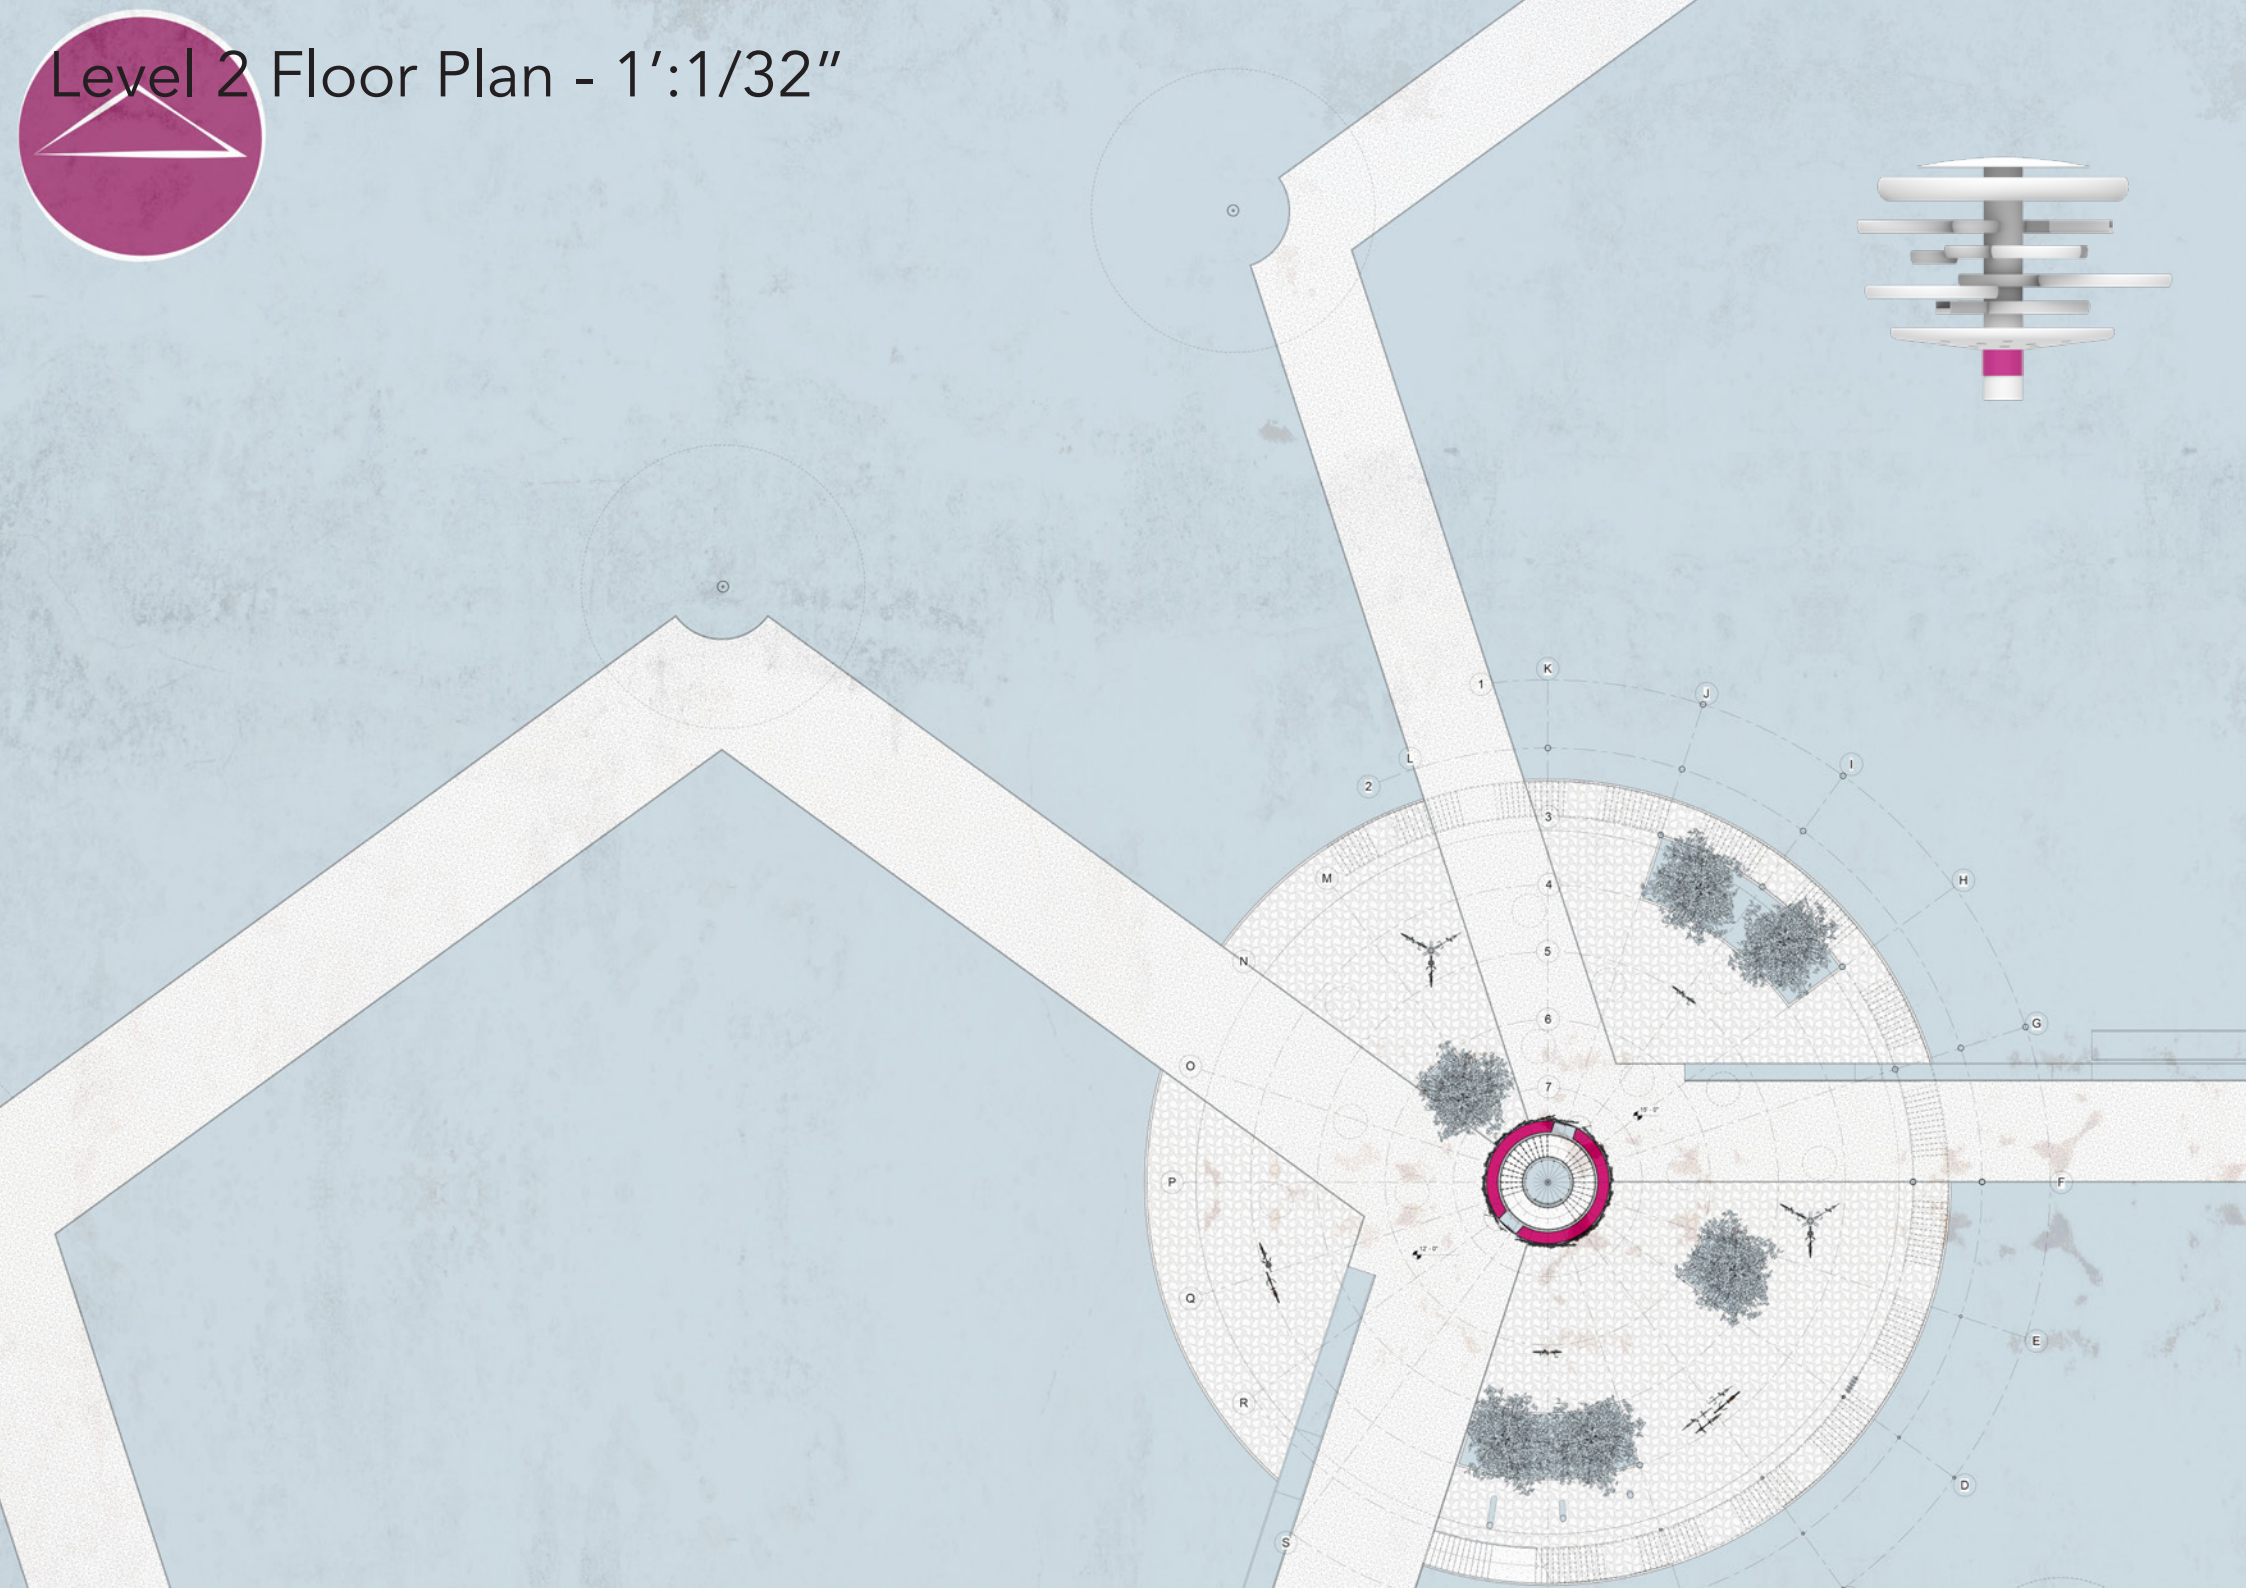

Elevated Walkways

Level 1 Floor Plan - 1':1/32"

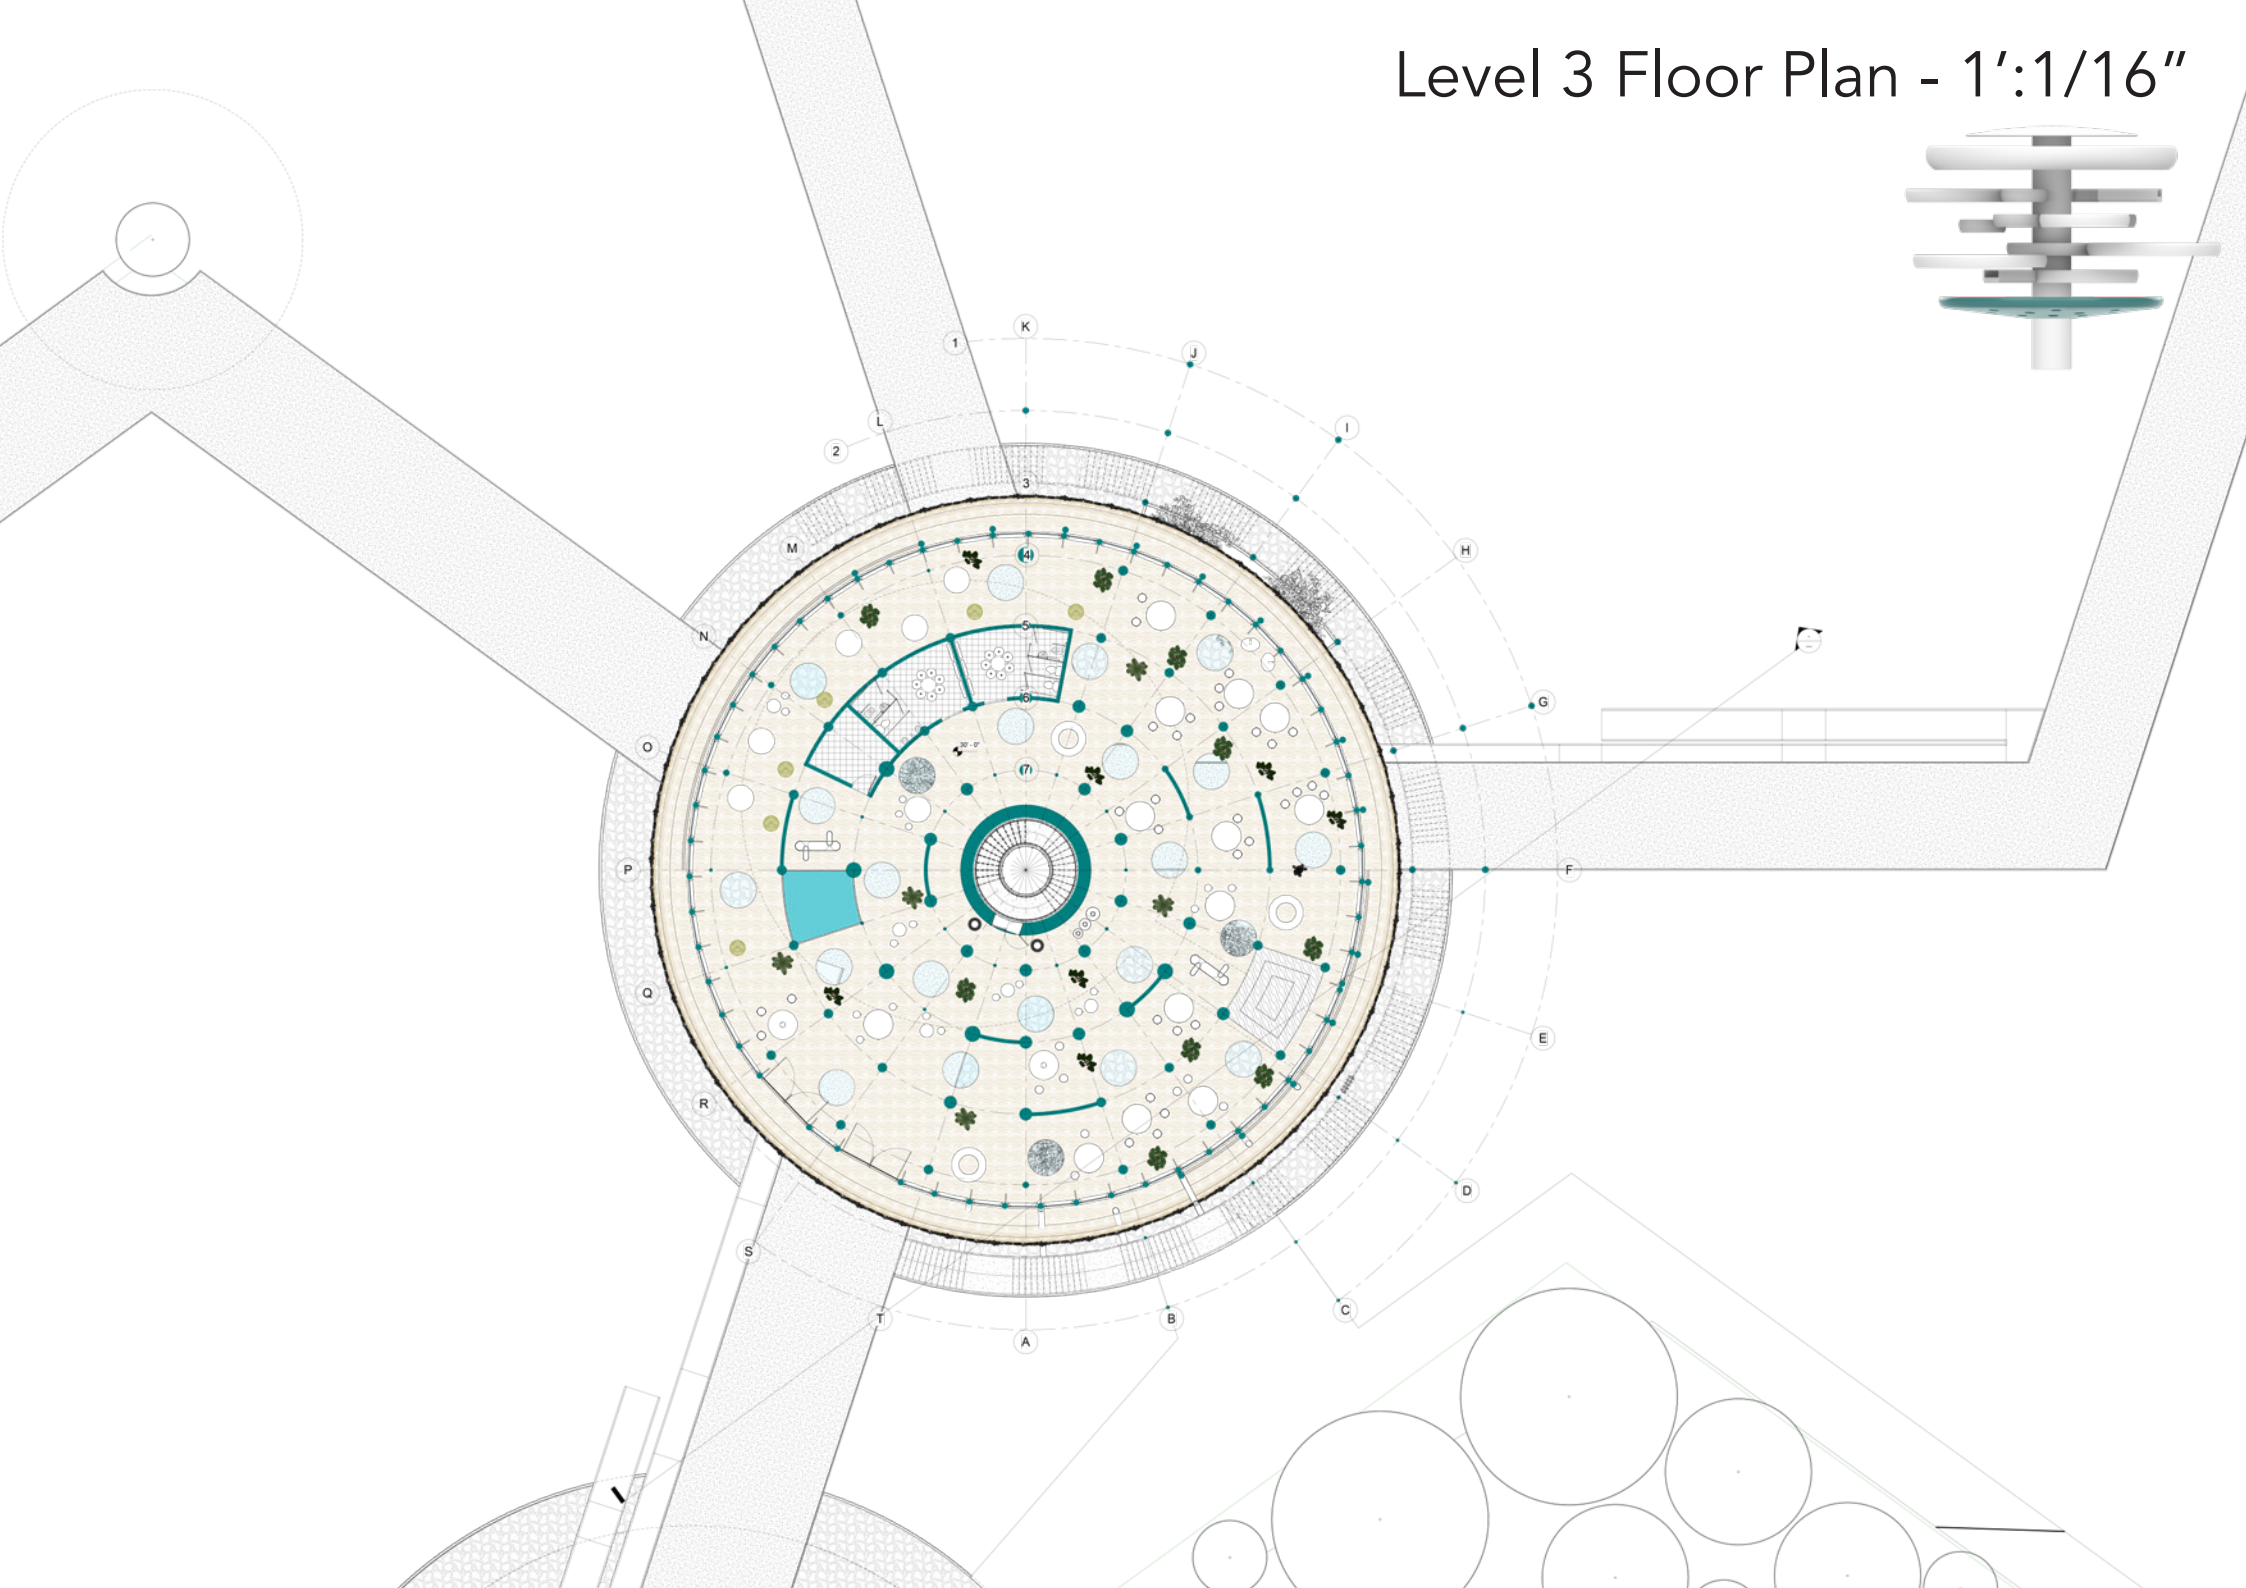

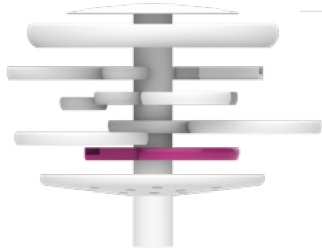

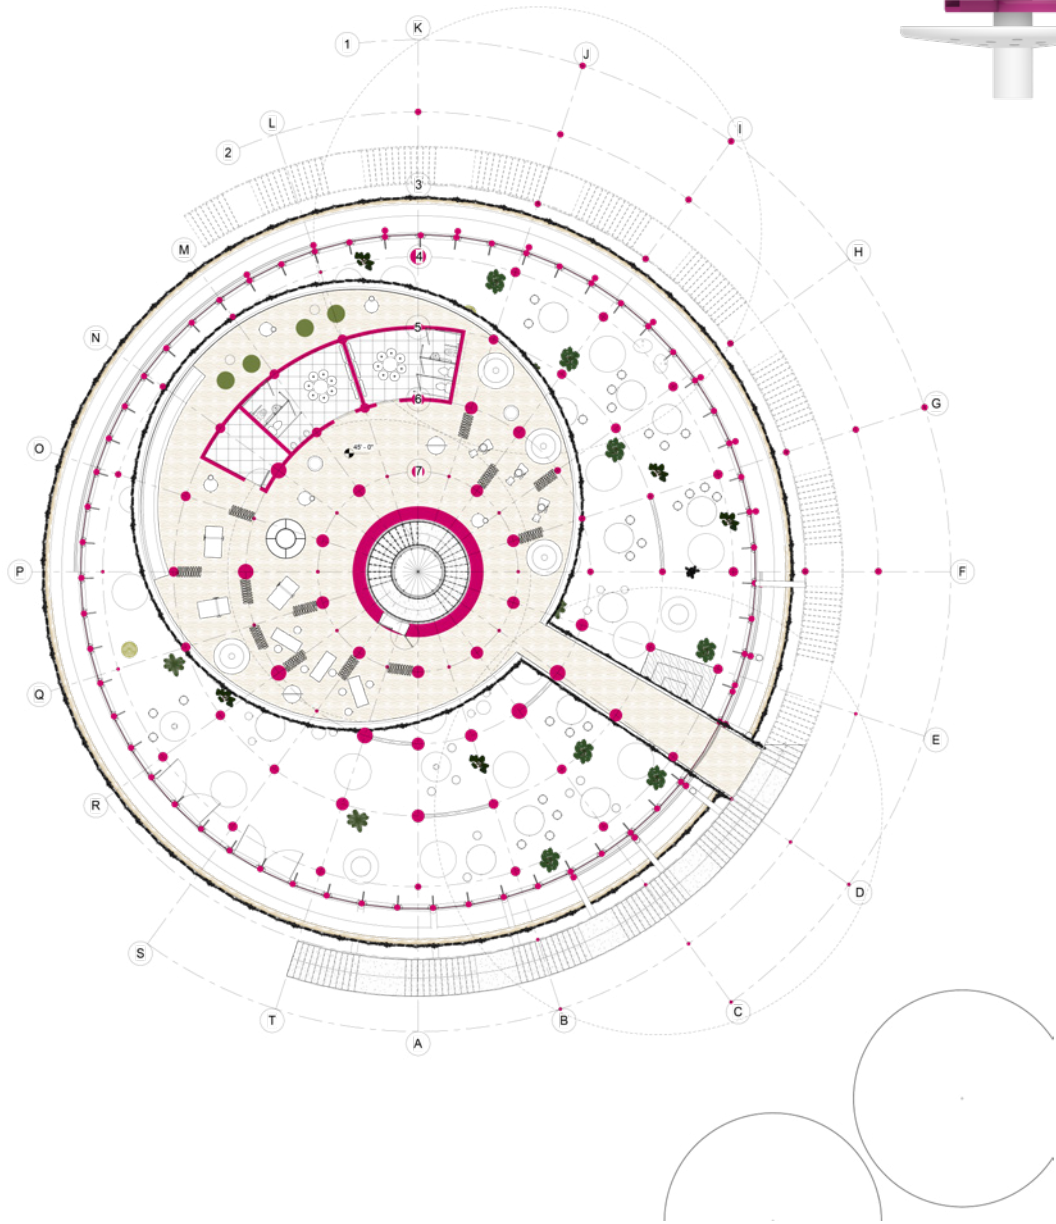

Level 2 Floor Plan - 1':1/32"

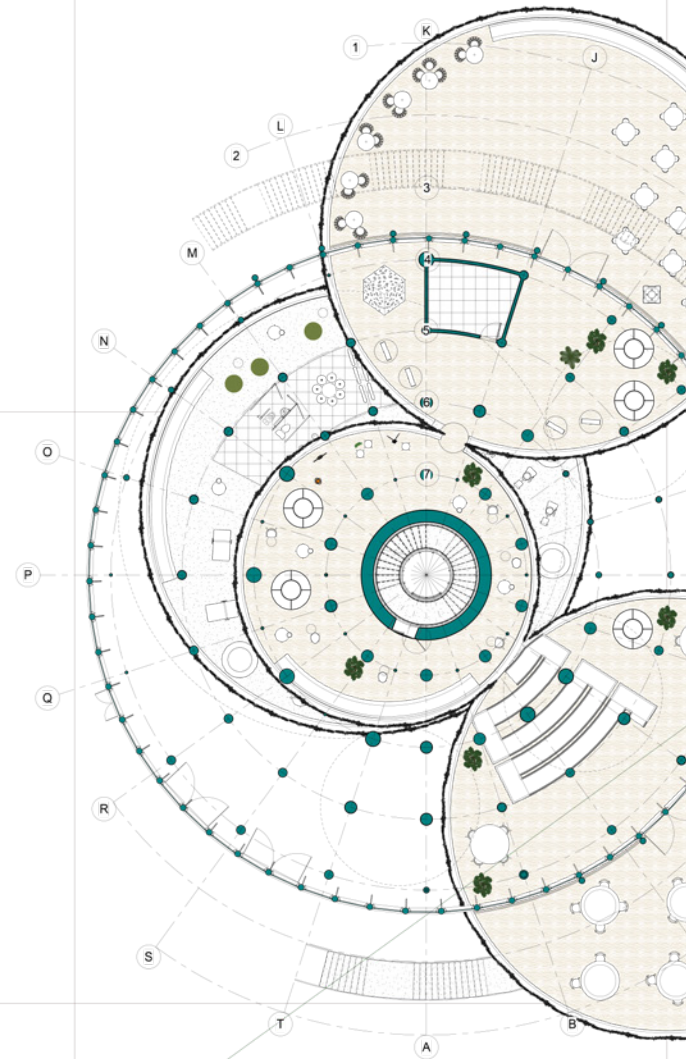

Level 3 Floor Plan - 1':1/16"

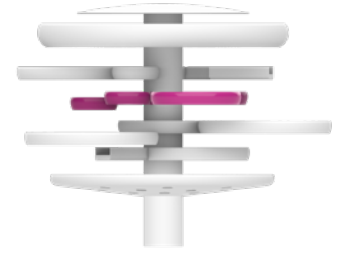

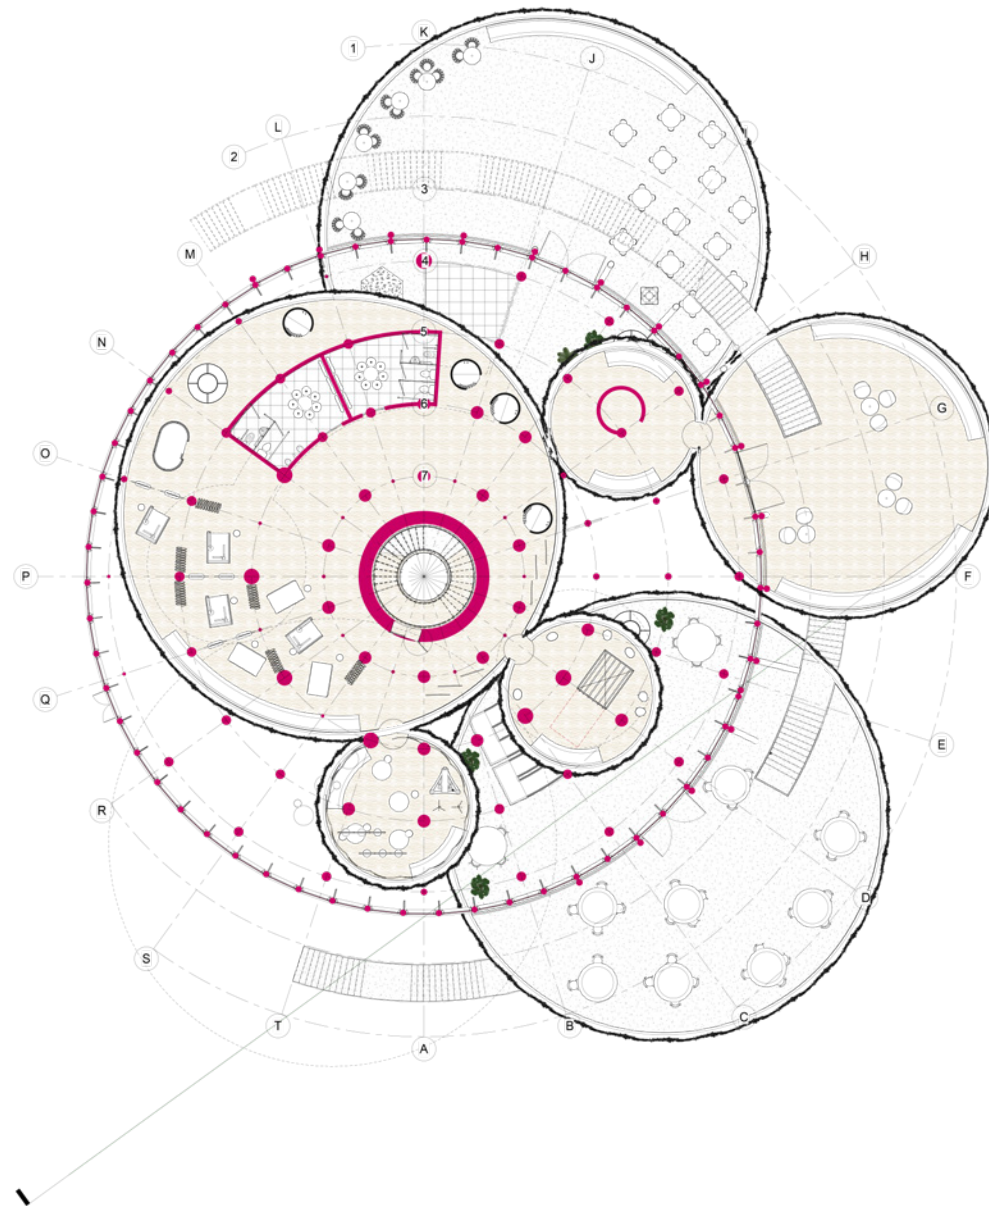

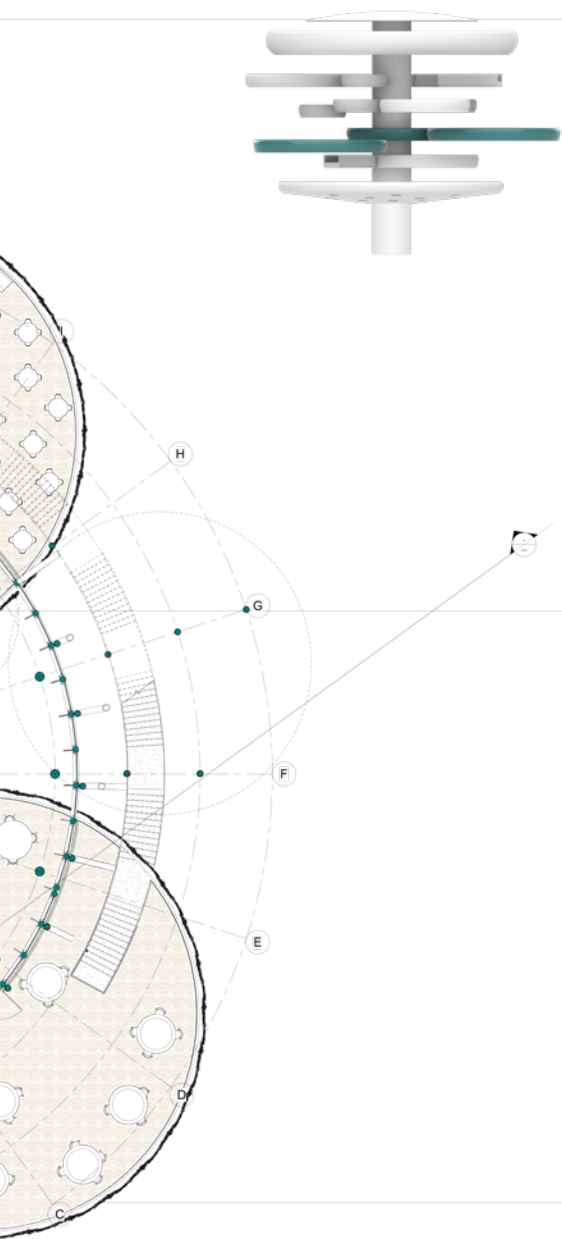

Level 4 Floor Plan - 1':1/16"

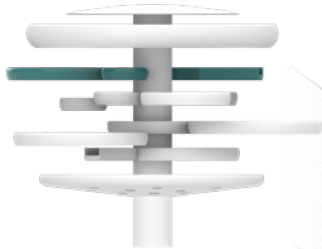

Level 5 Floor Plan - 1':1/16"

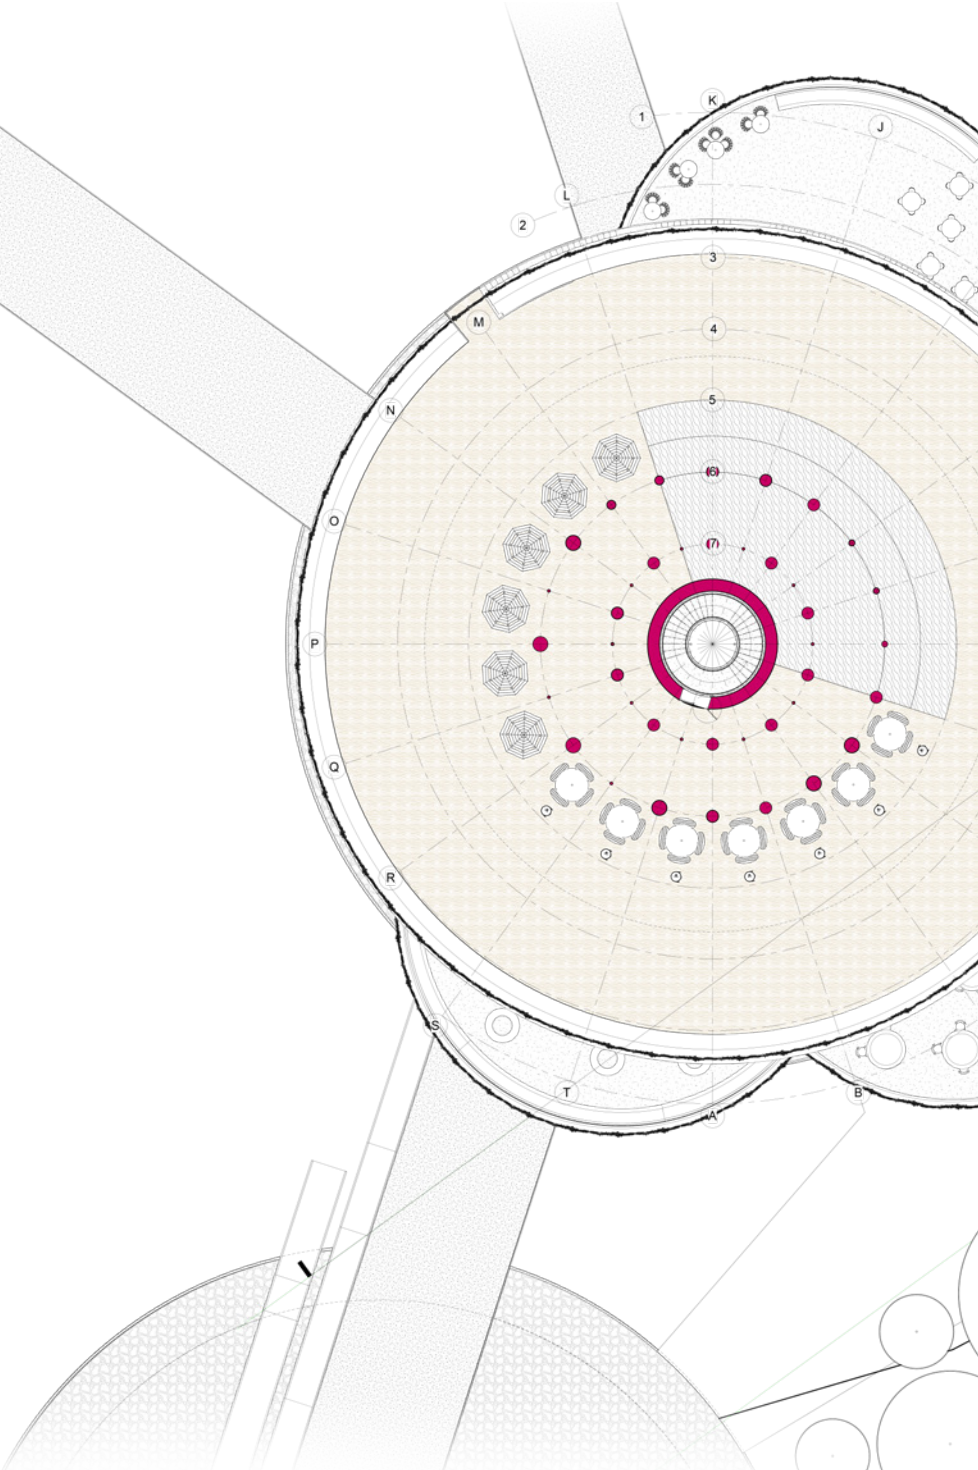

Level 6 Floor Plan - 1':1/16"

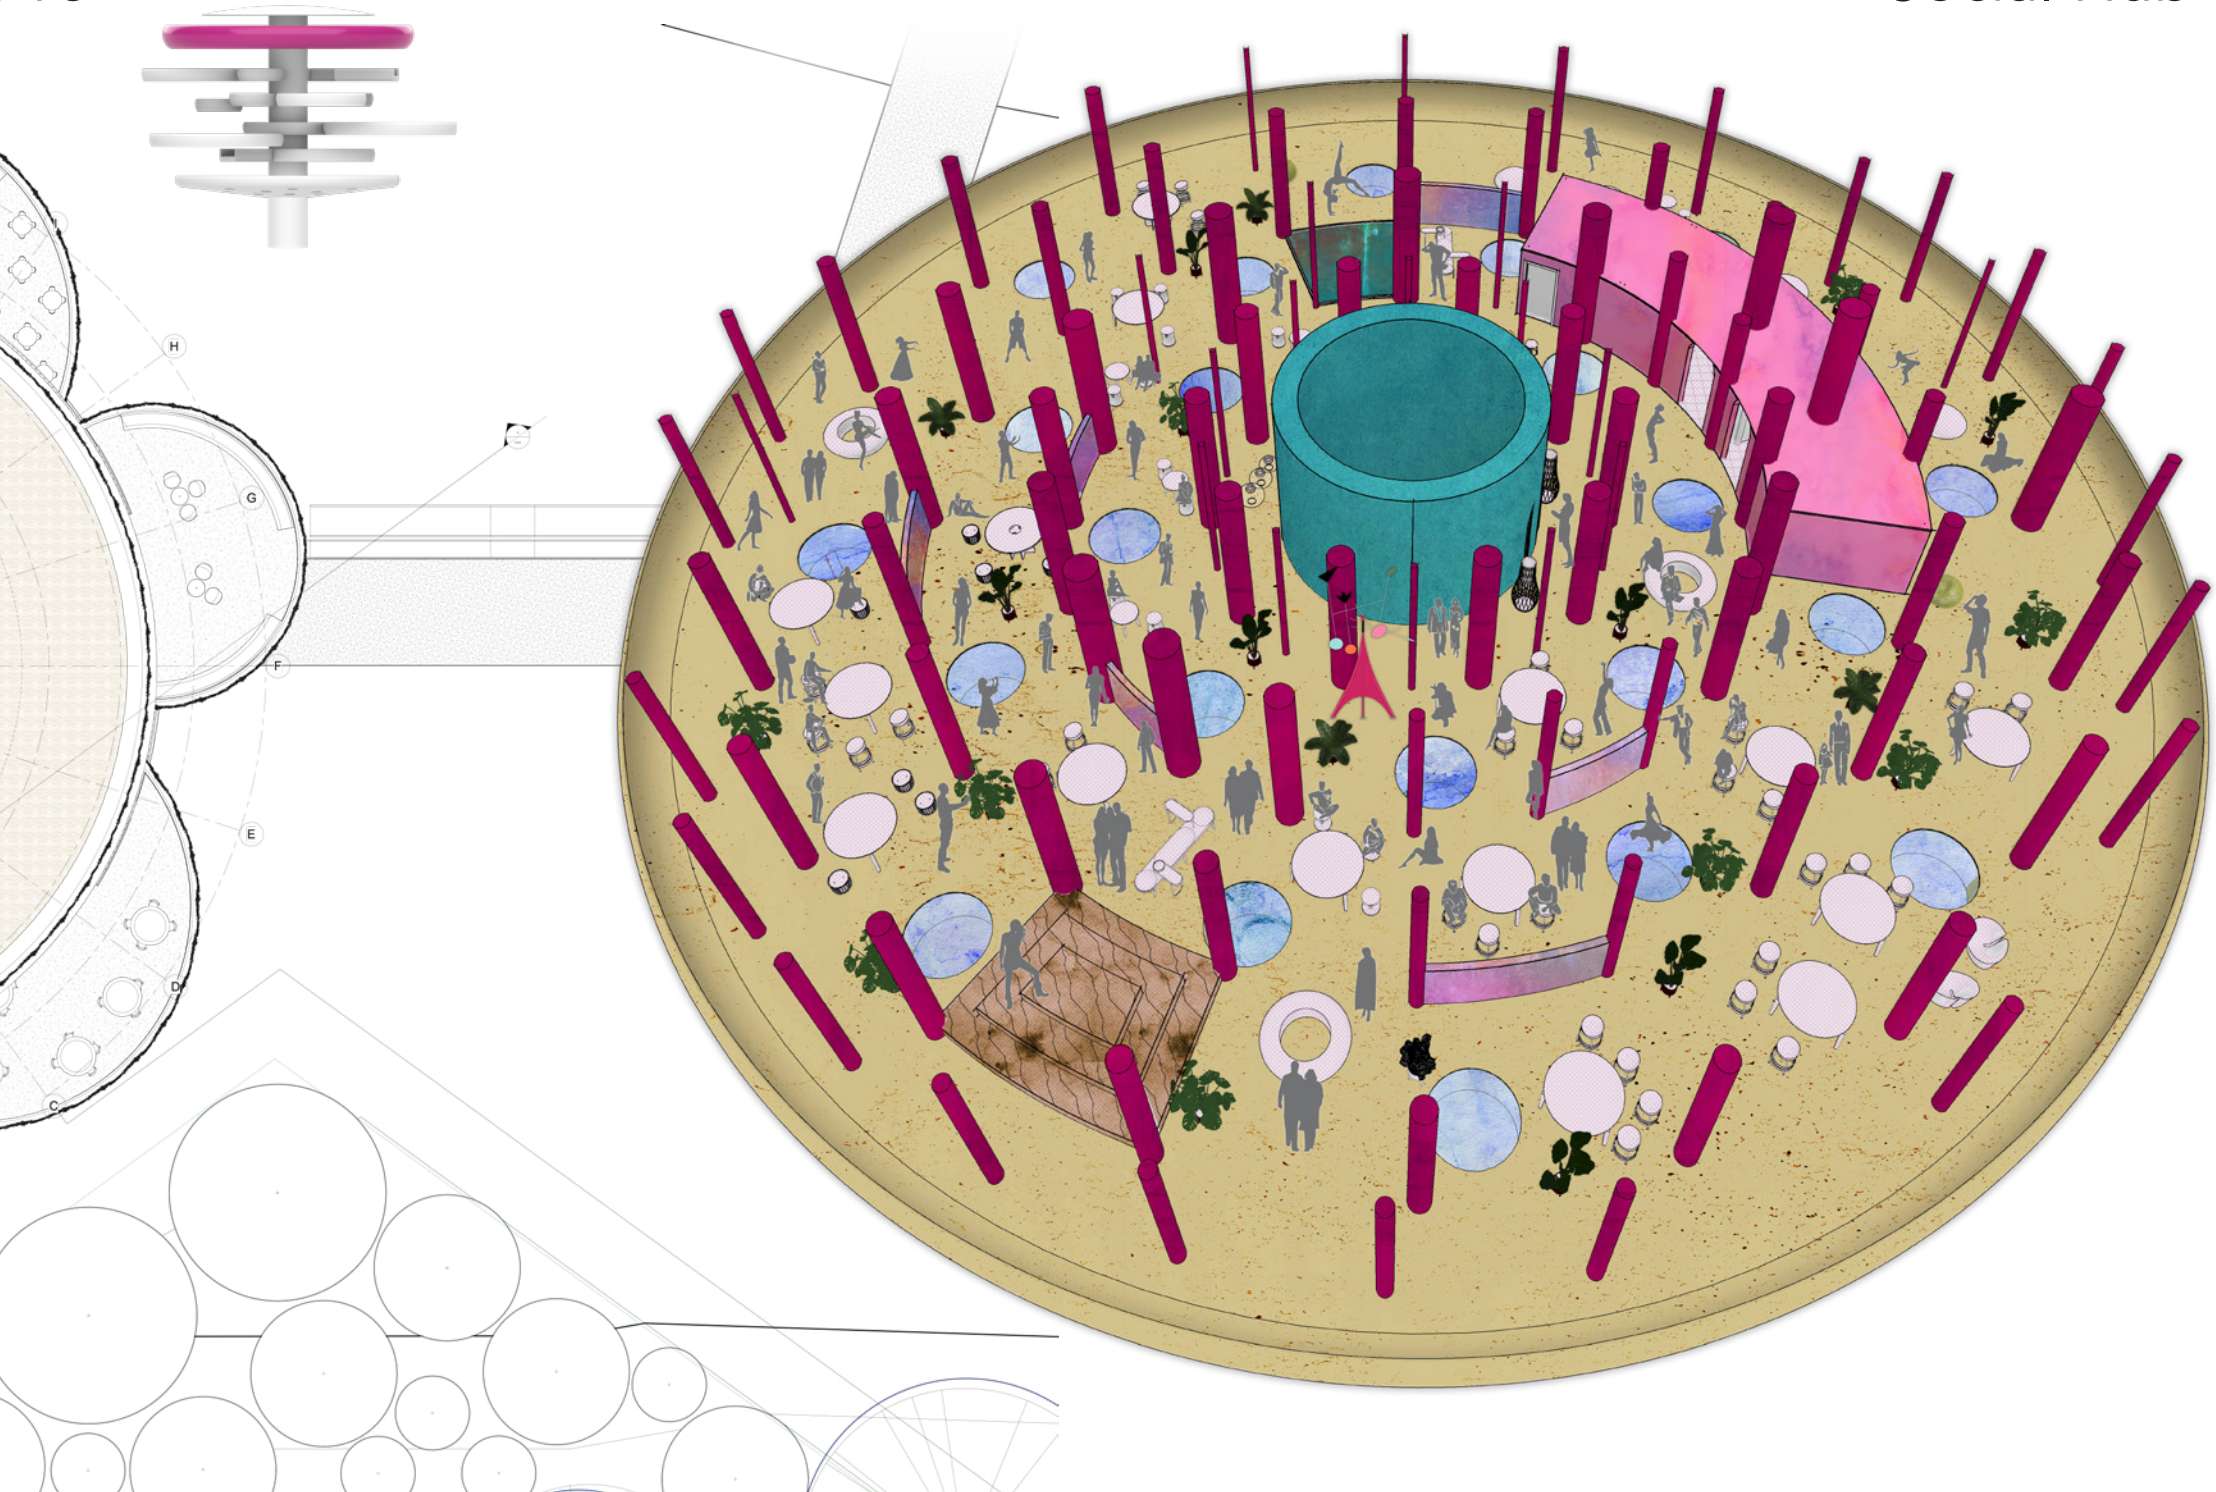

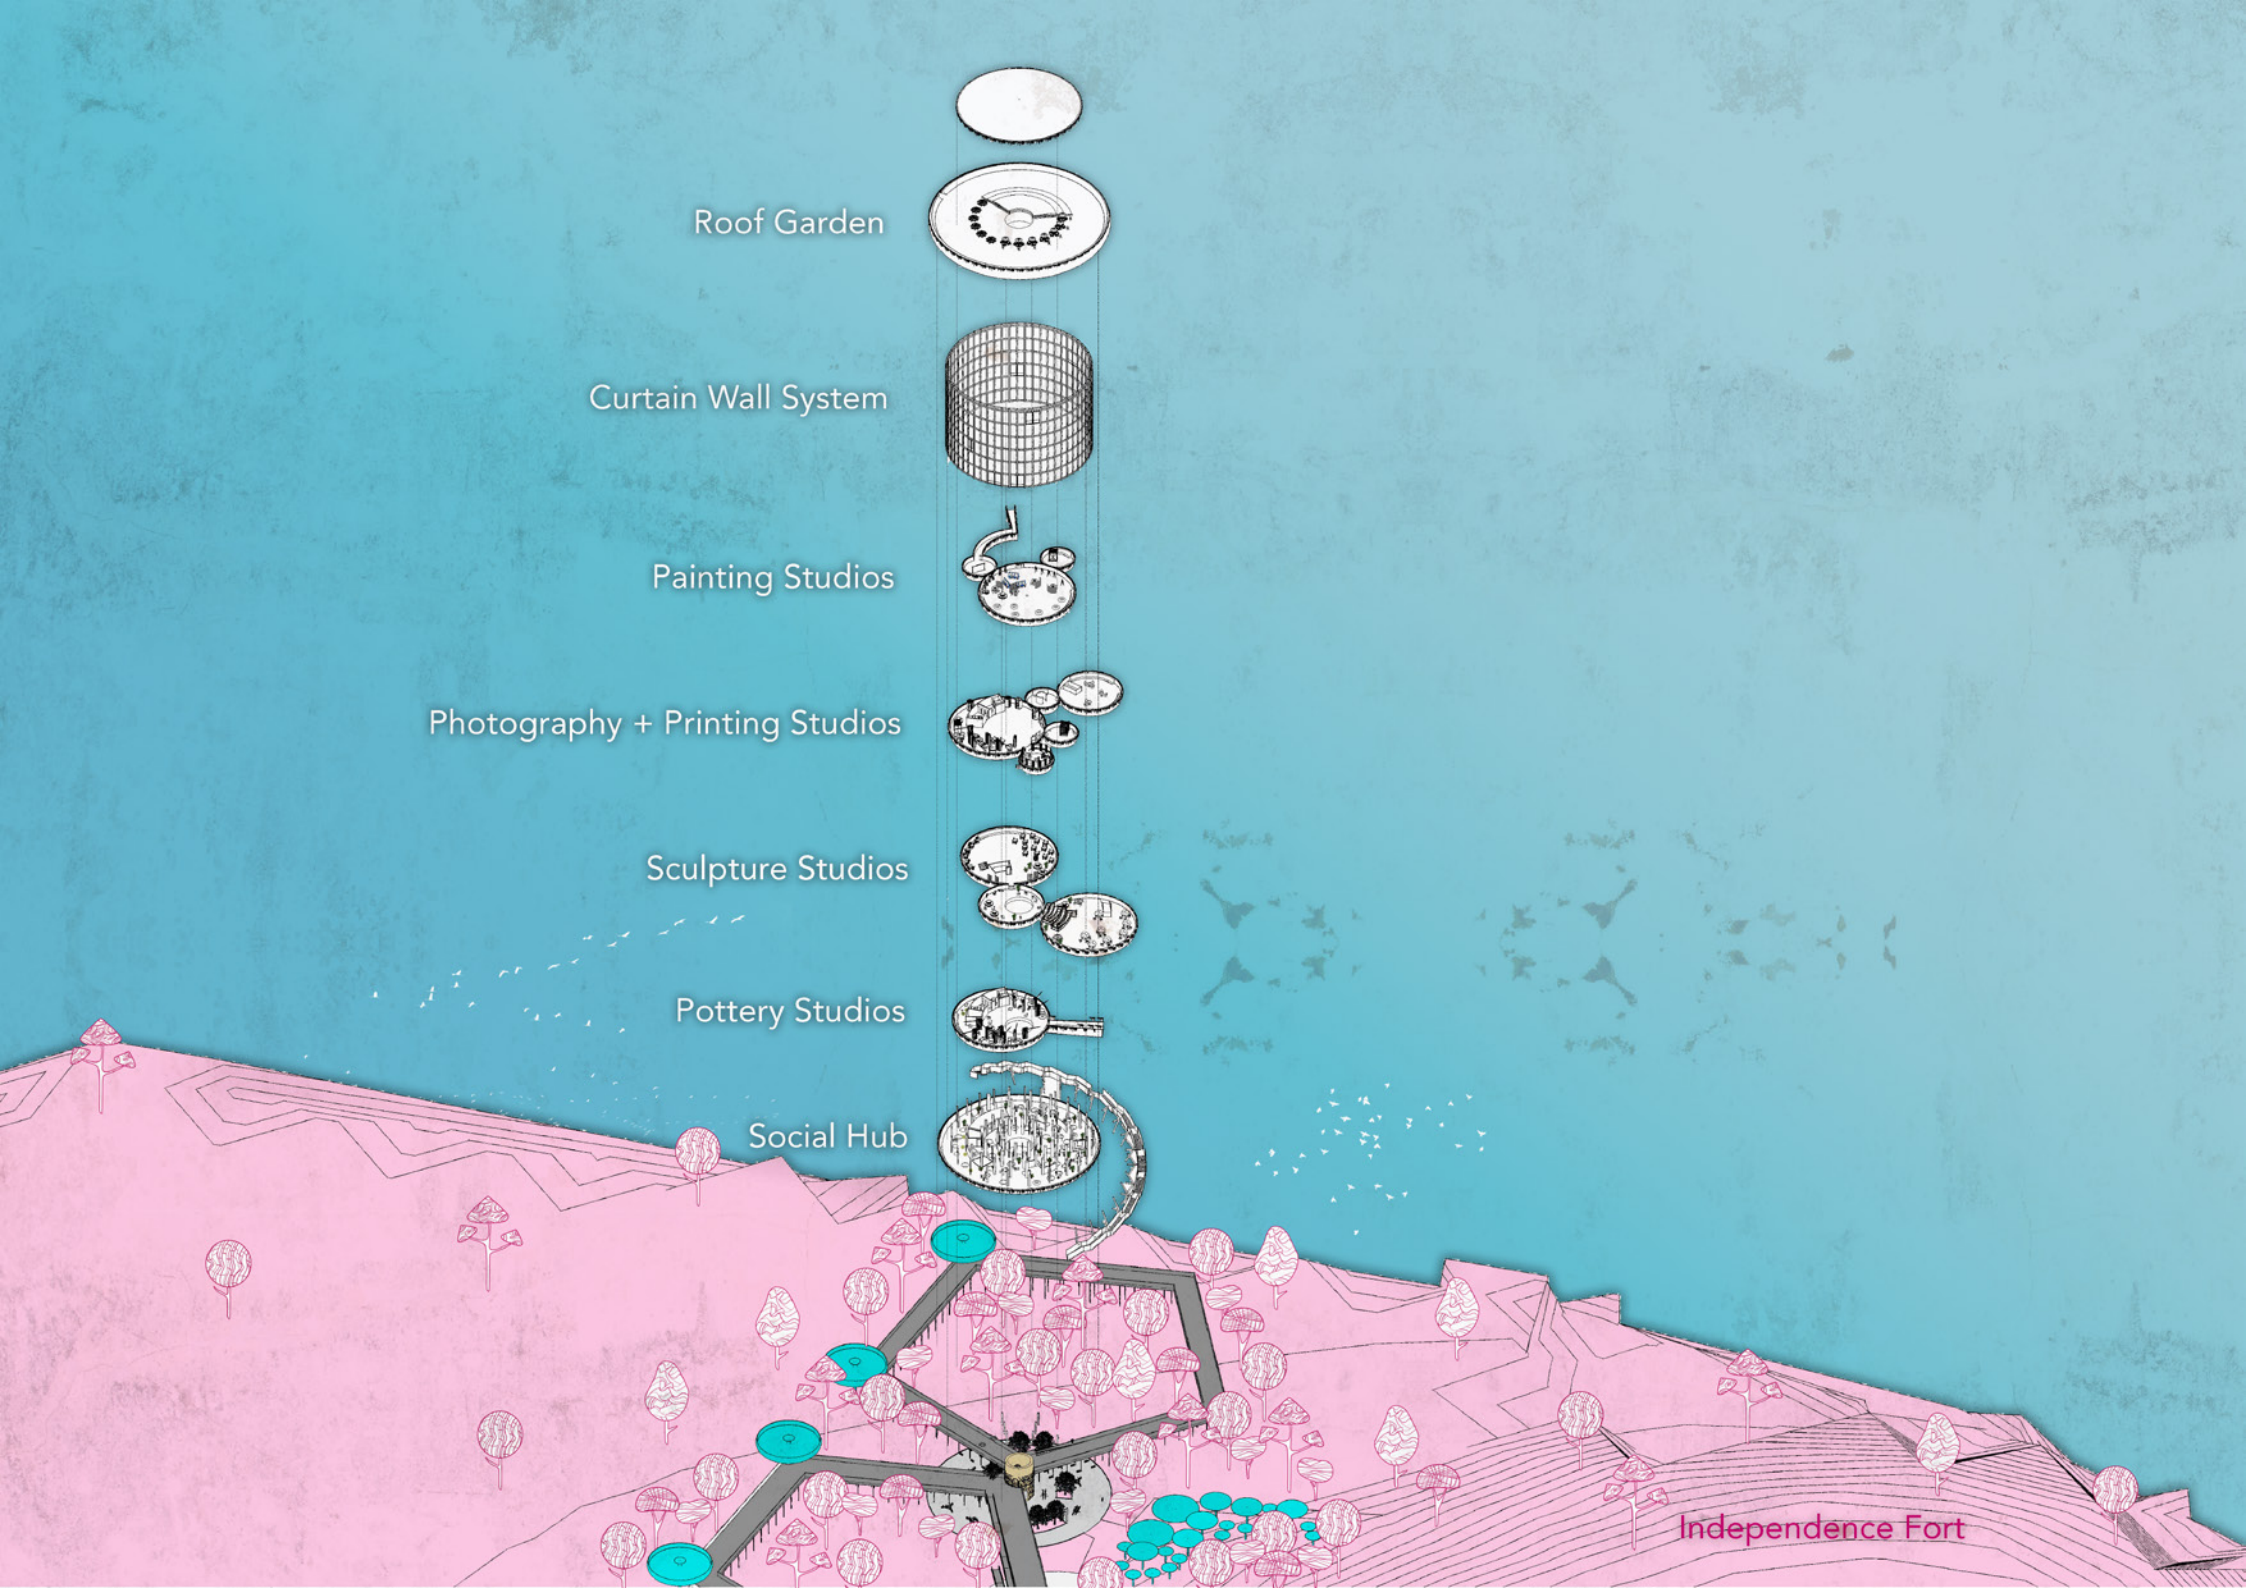

Level 7 Floor Plan - 1':1/16"

Level 8 Floor Plan - 1':1/16"

Roof Garden

Curtain Wall System

Painting Studios

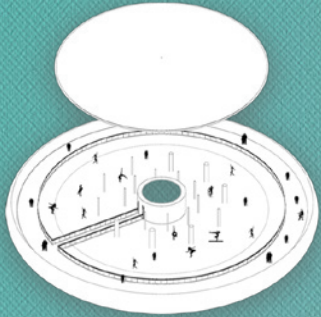

Photography + Printing Studios

Sculpture Studios

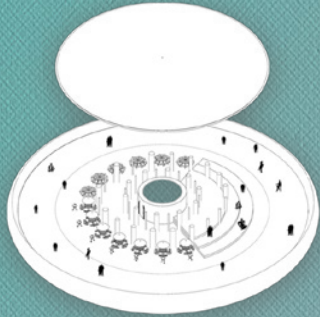

Pottery Studios

Social Hub

Independence Fort

Ice Rink

Picnic

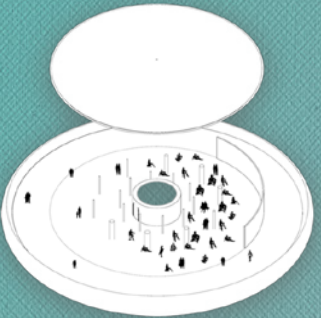

Play Structures

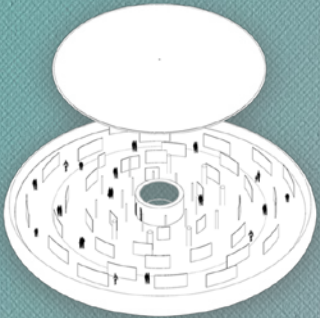

Theater

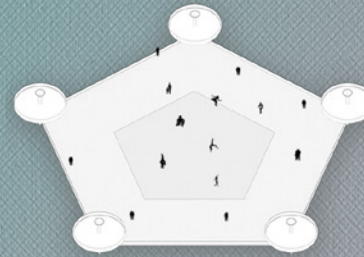

Swimming

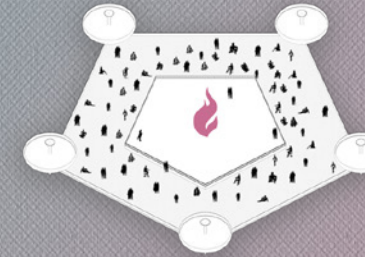

Open-Air Cinema

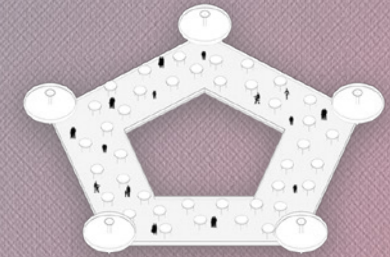

Exhibition

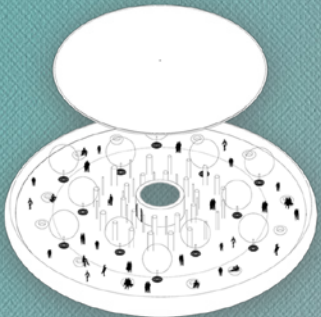

Jumping

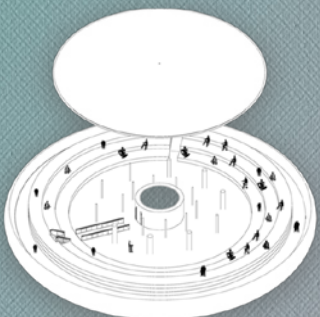

Bonfire

Local Market

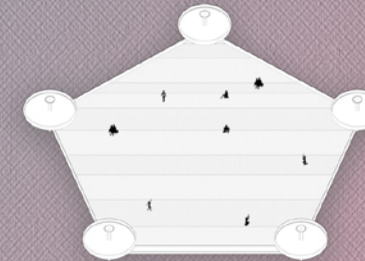

Roof Garden

Performances

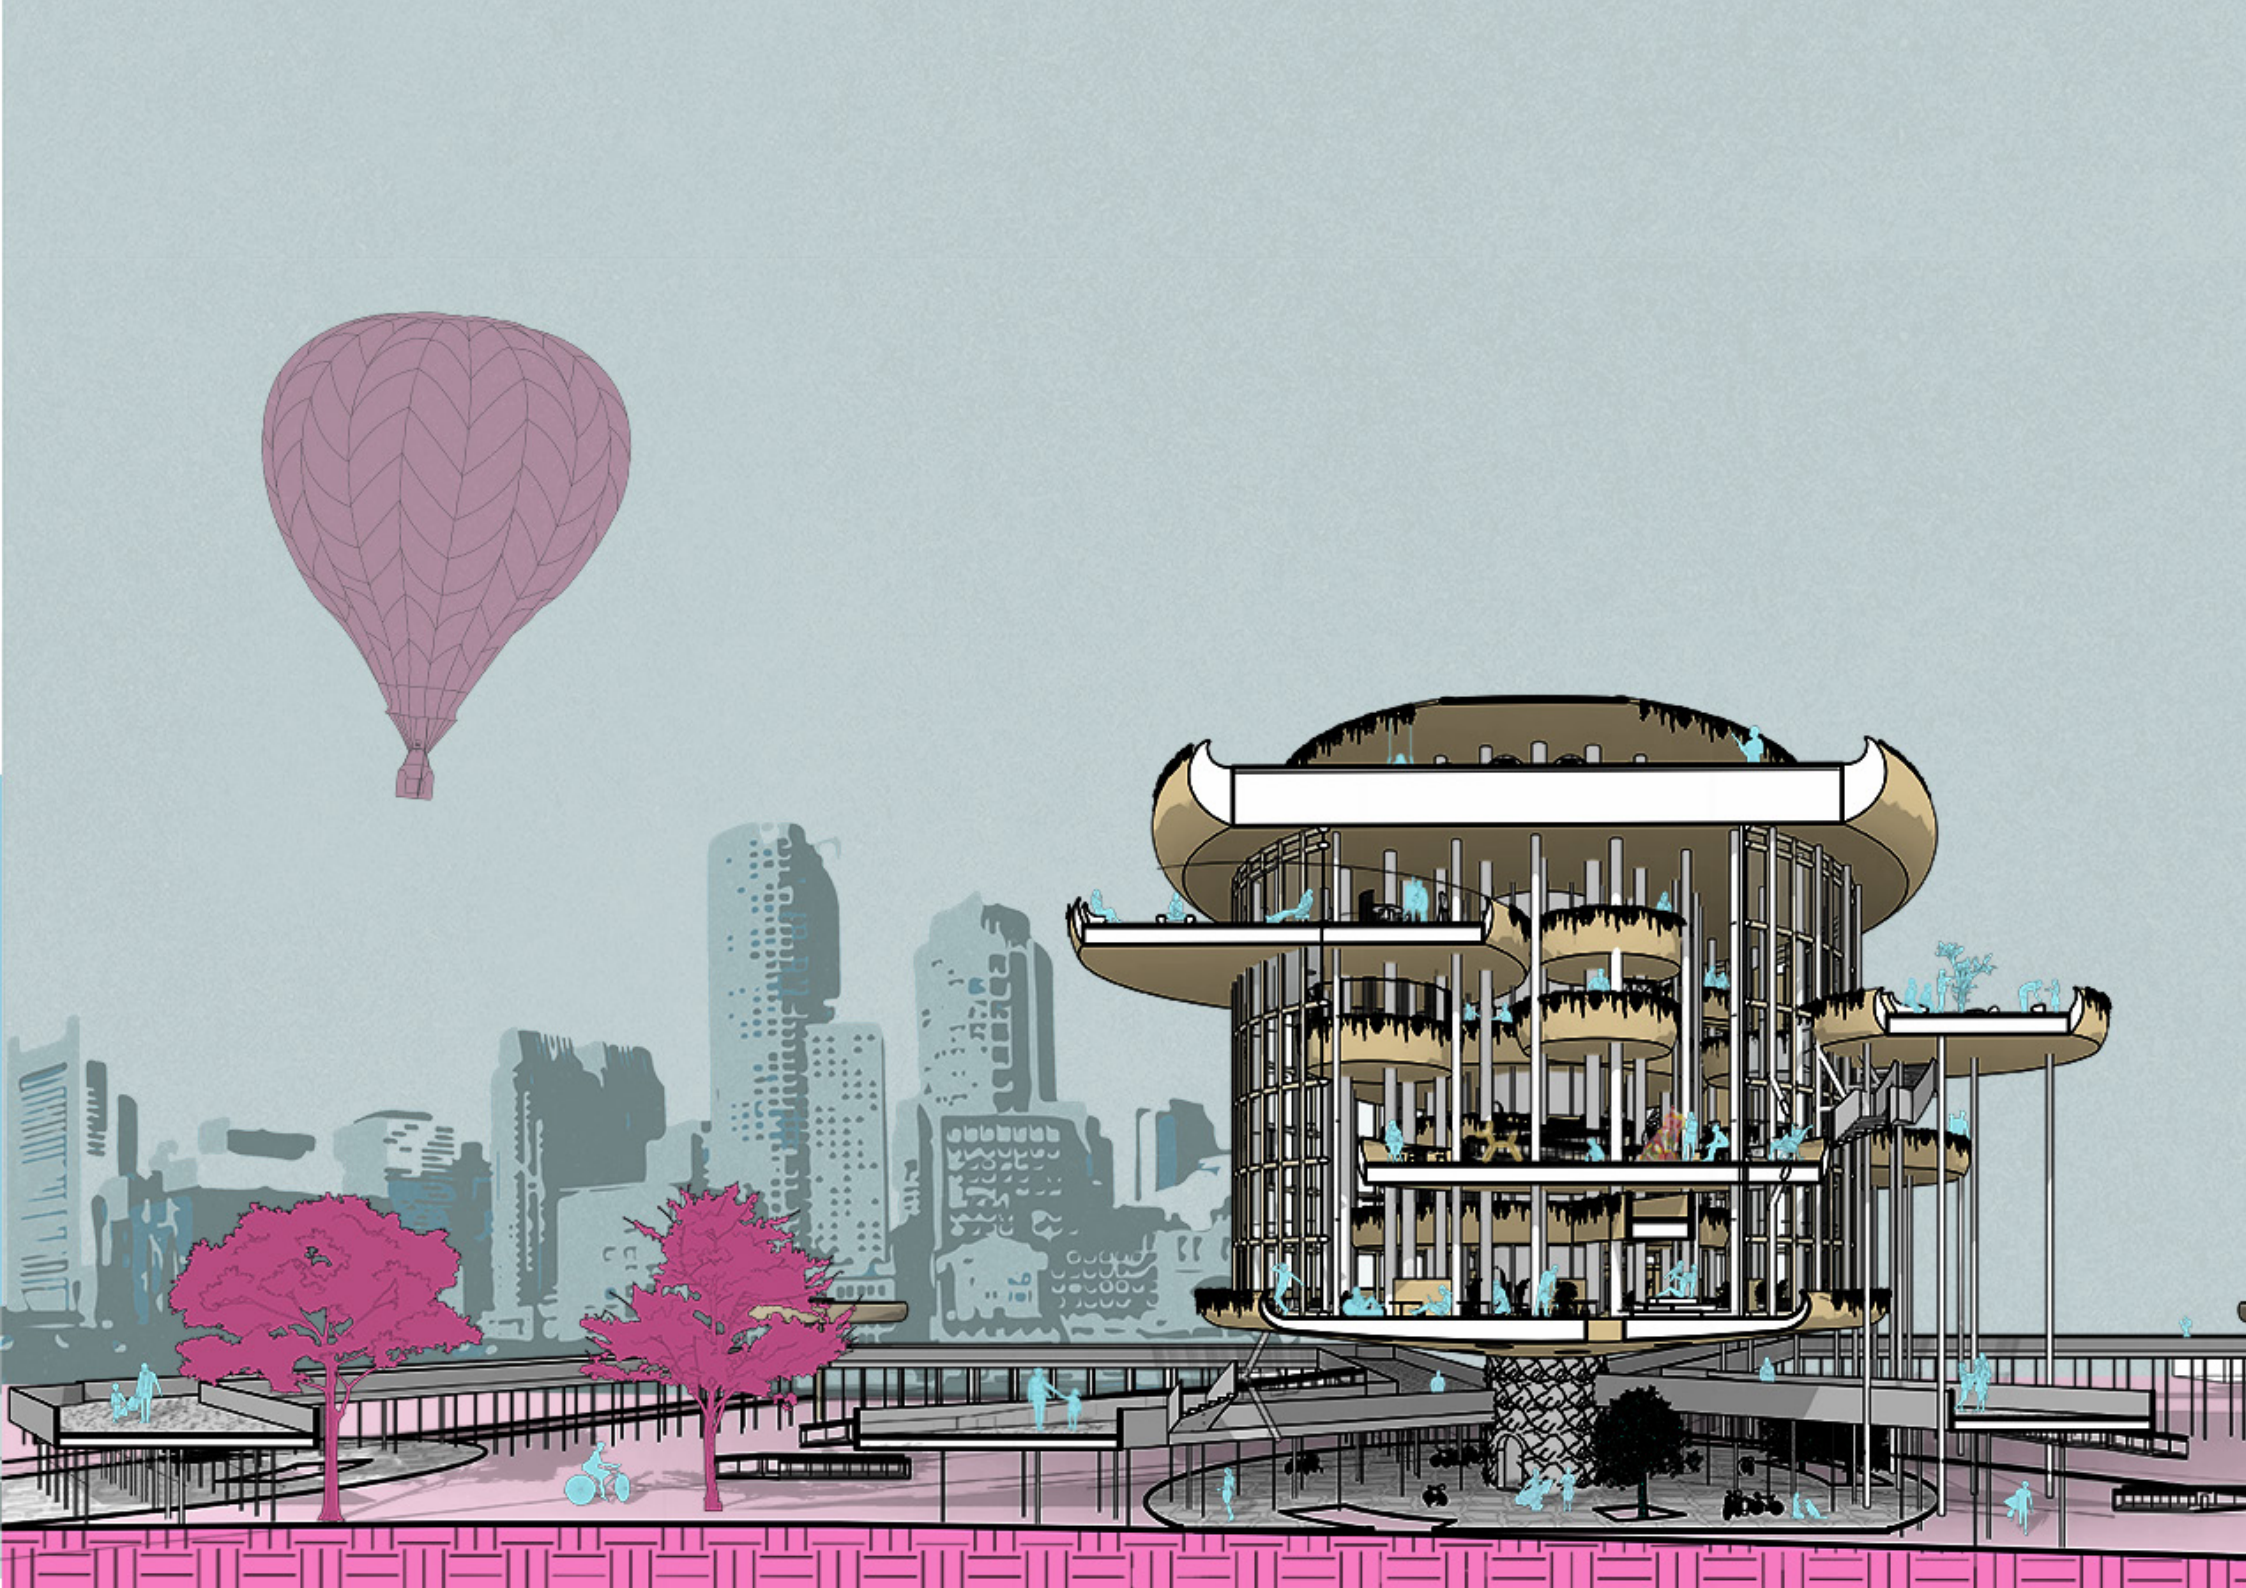

Floating Concert

Climbing

Garden

Section Perspective

